WE NOMINATE

Robert Clark Axtmann, a broad-gauged pioneer in the teaching of the engineering sciences and this fall entering upon his 12th year as a Princetonian, who has been tapped by President Robert F. Goheen for a major and challenging Princeton University assignment. The 53-year old teacher-scientist has been named Chairman of a University-wide Council on Environmental Studies, whose 11 members — students as well as nationally known faculty members — have been charged with the development of programs to stimulate and coordinate academic activity in environmental problems across the sweep of disciplines offered by a liberal arts university.

Ever since he was called to Princeton in 1959 from E. I. duPont de Nemours & Company, Axtmann has been trail-blazing. For instance, he is the first incumbent of the Mobil Professorship in Chemical Engineering for Nuclear Studies, founded and supported by the Mobil Oil Corporation and representing at its establishment in the 1950's a distinctly new departure in corporate support of higher education. As the "Mobil Professor" Axtmann promptly became the catalyst for introducing teaching and research programs in nuclear studies in engineering, including doctoral and post-doctoral work and ventures reaching out to the other departments in the School of Engineering.

This past summer Axtmann, who was promoted to the rank of full professor in 1965, was identified with two many-faceted educational experiments sponsored by the University's School of Engineering. For the second year he was a teacher in "Summer in Engineering," which provided a month of engineering instruction, laboratory work and field trips for 32 boys in the Princeton Community's Middle School, and also taught the lead-off course, "Nuclear Power, the Benefits and the Hazards," one of 12 week-long courses enabling some 300 professional engineers and applied scientists to participate in a program of "continuing education."

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Axtmann brought to the Princeton Campus a decade of varied experience in government laboratories and industry. After working in low temperature physics at the Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Ground, he joined duPont and over the next nine years served as research physicist, construction consultant and research supervisor. Among his posts with duPont was service as construction consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission's sprawling Savannah River Plant, Aiken, S.C., where he was responsible for the technical aspects of erecting a large reactor physics building and of assembling two research reactors.

In approaching his new responsibilities in one of the "hottest" fields in the groves of academe Axtmann, a product of Oberlin College and the Johns Hopkins University, who is a gifted writer and a frequent contributor to professional journals and "lay magazines" (e.g. the "Princeton Alumni Weekly"), feels that he and his associates will be grappling with three basic sets of issues. There is the question of fostering and co-ordinating graduate teaching with costly research programs, the submission for faculty approval of undergraduate programs, and consideration of the establishment of a multi-disciplinary center for environmental studies.

For his considerable achievements in areas of national significance; for seeking to harness effectively the range and surge of current student and faculty interest in our long-abused environment; for tackling gut educational problems in an era when Princeton and all universities have their backs to the financial wall; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

OUR DRUG SCENE

Worse? "Princeton must have some kind of guardian angel — we haven't yet had a death from drug overdose," said Hilda Wiletsky of "291 Witherspoon" with a weary smile. (That address is the Child Guidance so called "special project" center where kids and parents can go in the hope of loosening a burden which may or may not be related to drugs.

"The only thing that will shake people up — and that only for a while — is the first overdose death in Princeton. And we've come awfully close a couple of times," warns Lt. Michael Carnevale of the Borough police force.

Both Lt Carnevale and Det Anthony Pinelli, the Township's juvenile officer say "use of heroin among Princeton school children is definitely on the increase."

"At an alarming rate," says Lt. Carnevale.

"It's getting out of hand," reports Det. Pinelli.

In a survey last week answered by four out of five of the school's staff, 59% said the use of drugs by students is one of the major problems confronting the schools this year.

No teacher "zero" percent checked the statement "There is no drug problem in the Princeton Regional Schools."

Last Wednesday in Borough Court, John Houston of 92 Riverside Drive, age 18, was reported as one of those who nearly died of heroin overdose. Sgt. John Bellow told Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. that he answered an emergency call, and found young Houston unconscious and not breathing. He was revived by artificial respiration and rushed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Magistrate Tams handed down a 90-day suspended sentence in the workhouse and put the youth on six months probation.

In court, young Houston said it was easy to get in trouble in Princeton, and he told the magistrate he had left town early this summer for that reason.

How many near-misses like these are there? It's hard to tell, but some authorities say three a day.

"We've had a lot of sad stories," says Bill Kight, Princeton's street friend of youth. "An LSD-user treated in Trenton then transferred to the Illinois treatment center, which is the best. The doctor said the kid's mind was completely ruined."

Princeton Hospital is very cooperative, say Borough police about reporting overdoses brought into Emergency. The count is not made public because, according to John Kauffman, executive vice president of the hospital, publication of the figures is a medical matter which would have to be decided on as hospital policy by the medical staff.

Police point out that the hospital has no way of knowing about overdose cases treated at home by the family doctor and not reported. Bill Kight says some doctors will treat the same kid three or four times, and never send him to an agency, perhaps like "291 Witherspoon," where he could be helped.

Police will say confidentially that doctors are either afraid to report cases, bend to parental pressure, or fear the loss of a profitable practice if word gets around that they treat heroin overdosage. Also, doctors don't want to get involved in lengthy court appearances.

Younger . . . A chilling phrase in the police statement quoted above is "school children." This doesn't sound like high school teen-agers, and, alarmingly, it isn't.

"What scares me is they're getting younger," says Dr. Wiletsky. "I'll talk to a kid here at 291 and he says, 'Oh, I started two or three years ago when I was 11 or 12' and this is frightening."

Dr. Wiletsky points out that this 11-12 year time is when a kid learns to postpone immediate gratification, or to "take" pain.

"If they cop out on drugs that young, how are they ever going to cope?" she exclaims.

She also says they are so young they don't know when they've had a bad trip. They will say no, they've never had a bad trip. But they will describe frightful body and mind sensations that would immediately be recognized as a bad trip by an older drug taker.

"It's hard to know what they're taking," she explains. "Maybe four or five things are mixed together — mescalin, strychnine, amphetamines. And that of course, makes an overdose harder to treat because the doctor doesn't know exactly what the patient has inside."

Dr. Philip E. McPherson, superintendent of schools, comments on the irony of the young drug user. "Ironically, young children are given drugs by physicians or at the request of parents, for problems they call "school problems.' Then we wonder why kids give themselves drugs for 'school problems' later on in school."

Fear Doesn't Work. Scare techniques to frighten kids away from drugs just don't work, and that's the unanimous consensus of the Rev. Mr. Kight, the police and Dr. Wiletsky.

"Kids know a lot of other kids who've tried drugs and nothing happened, so they think we've lied to them," says the Rev. Mr. Kight. "They know about attempted suicides, but they say 'it won't happen to me'."

Police say some parents are concerned, but most shrug it off: "It's going to happen to somebody else's kid, not mine."

Det. Pinelli commented ruefully on the 1,200 people who turned out for a dog ordinance meeting . . . compared to the 400 who came when the meeting was about drugs.

Dr. Wiletsky's experience has been that parents will hear a scary lecture and go off in panic about drugs. She interviewed one family at "291" and deliberately used "in" drug terms. The young sister didn't know what she was talking about.

Consider the Whole. "No drugs but family tension was already there," she says. "Awareness of the total picture is much more important than scaring people."

And this is Mr. Kight, too: "To handle kids who use drugs, you have to deal with the whole range of sensitivities: home, school, meaningfulness. And," he adds pessimistically, "even this doesn't keep kids from experimenting."

Dr. McPherson says that, as an educator, "I'm not interested in talking with any one about 'the drug problem' unless they're willing to talk with me about school problems of kids at the same time.

"Bad experiences with school contribute to kids' decisions to use drugs and we have to deal with possible connections between things wrong with school, and the drug problem."

McPherson, Burke Pledge Mutual Support

"I pledge my support to Florence Burke and to all of you in the task we are now facing together," said School Superintendent Philip E. McPherson Tuesday afternoon at an informal, drop-in gathering which included some PHS teachers, members of Student Council, other students principals from other schools and, in fact, anybody who wanted to come.

Dr. McPherson was candid about last spring: "I was personally disappointed in the way some things worked out," he reminded his audience. "I did not recommend the appointment of Miss Burke as principal; I did not recommend the appointment of a principal; I recommended a new structure for governing and administering the high school."

But all that is history, he said. He announced plans for turning up at more PHS events — PTA Thursday afternoon coffees, faculty-student study groups like the Independent Study program, meetings of new teachers; meetings of the new student-faculty Advisory Council, after its elections are held sometime in mid-October; athletic events, dances . . .

The superintendent warned that "I intend to speak out more openly and forcefully on the issues in the school system and the high school . . . I want to build up the high school, building on its strengths." He reminded teachers, students and administrators that, as superintendent, he has final responsibility for what the high school is.

Miss Burke also spoke at the informal gathering, pledging her own support to the high school and the school system. She smilingly referred to her remarks and Dr. McPherson's as "New Year's resolutions."

Dr. McPherson turned to his relations with the board of education; "I don't always have things my way with the board, but I'm not crying 'no support'. Overall, they have been highly supportive of me, and to the forward thrust of the school system."

Power Out — Briefly

A part of Princeton, primarily portions of the western section, lost power for about 25 minutes Tuesday during the shortage of electricity which affected eight eastern states.

Power went off shortly after 5 p.m., but was restored before 5:30. Utility officials said that the action was intentional, over selected areas, to conserve electricity during the unusual late-September heat wave.

Failure of a generating plant in Pennsylvania, which supplies much of the power in that state, New Jersey and Maryland, was given as the initial cause for the shortage. A "selective shutdown" of service, last ing about a half hour in most communities, was adopted to prevent an emergency.

School is Next. School is where it's headed, at the moment. State law now requires a drug education program, and next Tuesday, school officials will ask the Princeton Regional Board of Education for an across-the-board program in all grades, kindergarten through 12.

On the teachers' survey quoted earlier, teachers gave top priority to four topics:

- How to recognize drug abuse symptoms
- How to have a stronger reaction toward angry or withdrawn students
- What is the law?
- What, medically and pharmaceutically, is the nature of the drugs themselves?

Tentative plans for teacher education are being made, based on the survey, and the schools hope to begin in late October.

The program may start with a panel of doctors and pharmacists, and a panel of legal experts. Then the teachers will step back, examine what they have learned and go on from there.

"The staff feels a clear responsibility to this area," says Dr. Constance Vieland, who drew up the survey. "We got a low response to questions about leaving the problem to the home, or doing nothing about it at all in school."

Full details about the survey will be given to the teaching staff shortly, Dr. Vieland said. State law requires completion of teacher education by the end of the calendar year with a curriculum for the students in the second semester.

POLICE ANGERED

Over Light Drug Sentence. Borough police from Chief Peter J. McCrohan on down have expressed both anger and disgust over what they feel was a light sentence given here last week to a repeated drug offender.

Harold Humes, 44, no address, was given a four-day jail sentence by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. after he was charged with smoking a marijuana cigarette on September 13 in his car. The maximum penalty for use is a misdemeanor charge and a $1000 fine and one year in jail.

Humes, who has been arrested in the past for use and possession of drugs, also faces a grand jury action in three more drug cases that are pending. He is also being held for grand jury action for trespassing on the Princeton Inn dormitory.

"The cops in Princeton have had it up to here," commented one patrolman. "We're getting sick and tired of arresting people, then having to testify in court on our own time, and then watch them walk out free. And people keep asking why don't we do something."

Humes was arrested on the 13th by Ptl. Ronald Holliday who observed him allegedly smoking marijuana in his car on Nassau Street. Ptl. Holliday, who was not called to the stand to testify in the case, reported that Humes did not brandish the alleged "reefer" in front of the police as reported but tried to hide it between his legs.

Contrary to a recommendation by the Mercer County Prosecutor's office, Chief McCrohan reported that he may have his men apply the more serious charge of possession — an indictable offense — in future arrests "where the condition warrants it."

"I'm not going to say we'll do it on a teen-age, first time offender," he said "but here we had a man who is 44 and a repeated offender."

McCrohan also suggested that minimum mandatory penalties for the use of marijuana be established. Maximum penalties are a joke," he said. "I don't know of anyone getting a maximum penalty around here for anything in years."

"What they should do is require a minimum mandatory sentence and make it stick."

TENANTS EVACUATED

Because of Restaurant Fire. Dense smoke from a fire early Wednesday morning in the kitchen of the Colonial Restaurant, Witherspoon and Spring Streets, forced evacuation of apartment dwellers from a building next door.

A fireman at the scene said smoke poured through the restaurant, the three-story Benson office building on the corner, Western Union and apartments above the Urken Supply Company, 27 Witherspoon.

Three pieces of equipment answered the 4:52 general alarm, and firemen were able to confine the blaze to the kitchen. Most of the kitchen was burned out, however, and the restaurant suffered extensive smoke and water damage. One piece of equipment was still standing by three hours later to prevent possible flare-ups.

No one was reported injured in the pre-dawn fire, which is under investigation.

'Tower' Lopped Off by More Than Half

The 11-Story Tower as originally designed for Mt. Lucas Road.

Developers of The Tower at Princeton have sliced a big chunk off the top of the 11-story office building planned for Mt. Lucas Road, and will cut it down to "three or four stories" in size.

Collins, Uhl, Hoisington and Anderson, architect developers, informed Township Committee of their change in plans Monday afternoon.

They hope to have new plans ready for October 1 presentation to the Township site plan review board. First, however, they must submit these new plans to W. Joseph Shinn, the Township's zoning officer, to be checked out for zoning requirements. This may be accomplished by the end of the week, according to Harrison Uhl.

Mr. Uhl said the firm hasn't yet decided what form the new "Tower" will take, or indeed what new name it may have, but the floor area will remain the same. This means it will cover about three or four times the ground space that the 11-story Tower would have, Mr. Uhl pointed out.

The architects may decide on several small buildings around a court, or perhaps two connected buildings, Mr. Uhl said. The parking will be about the same, he indicated. "Tower" parking provided for about 500 cars.

The firm has retained Frank Quinby, former Township engineer, to make traffic studies, and will shortly decide on a firm to study water run off, Mr. Uhl said. Traffic and drainage were both objects of concern by residents who protested construction of the building.

A special meeting of the Princeton Regional Planning Board had been scheduled for October 20 for a re-hearing of the Tower case, and Mr. Uhl said he'd like to hang on to that date for his new proposal.

Mayor John D. Wallace pointed out, however, that the whole scene has now changed. It will probably be November before the new plan can be considered by the Planning Board, he said.

At Committee's Monday night meeting, a resident questioned the legal power of the Planning Board to review a site plan recommendation. He predicted that the new "Tower" plans would probably meet what he termed the "liberal specifications" of the Service zone, and he asked whether requirements for that zone could be reviewed.

Mayor Wallace told him that the Service Zone is next on the Township Planning Board's list of zoning amendments, and will probably be introduced in late October or early November.

The Township's three year old site plan ordinance, under which the Tower was reviewed, expires in November. It will be indefinitely extended by an ordinance scheduled for October 5 introduction which will simply remove the expiration date.

J. W. Bauman, of Mt. Lucas Road, who has led opposition to the Tower, told Committee he wouldn't want to see the site plan ordinance disappear, although he preferred a broader community representation on the review board. The present site plan board approved the original Tower plans.

ZONING EXAMINED

For Amending. The dry kind of business that doesn't make much excitement but can nevertheless change the face of a town occupied Township Committee Monday night.

The first of the Township's zoning ordinance amendments for Educational Zones was examined in public hearing and referred back to the Planning Board for cutting and tidying.

And waiting. The amendment creates two Educational Zones — E-1 and E-2 — and because the part of E-2 that includes the Institute for Advanced Study is so close to the Weller Tract, the New Jersey State Bureau of Parks asked Committee to hold off any action until the state can examine the ordinance.

Mayor John D. Wallace said the next day at his press conference that he will prod the state toward a quick reply so the ordinance can be voted on in October or early November.

The Institute owns the Weller Tract and wants to build faculty houses there. The state expressed interest in acquiring it to add to the adjoining Princeton Battlefield Park, but pulled back this summer from an announced decree to pick up the whole tab.

Citizens on Monday night expressed concern that provisions of the new ordinance might sow Institute acreage with one-acre housing plots. The land is now in a two acre zone.

Ham radio operators also signaled some questions. The amendment sets up 1,000 watt standards for "electromagnetic radiation." The hams complained that the ordinance tries to supercede Federal Communications Commission regulations of 2,000 watts.

Next on the zoning amendment list will be a package consisting of the 206 Alexander service zone, the 206 business zone, a new Shopping Center district and possibly a new district for professional offices on Harrison. Mayor Wallace hopes for introduction later in the fall.

The Township Planning Board, working toward its own dissolution, won't finish the amendments by December 31, and will need a legal transfusion to keep it alive another year.

Federal highway safety funds will provide $42,296 for a Township accident prevention program, reported Lt. Richard Steiner with considerable satisfaction. Money will pay the salaries of a full time traffic sergeant, an assistant patrolman, clerk typist, schooling at a traffic institute and a specially equipped car.

The money is for one year. Afterwards, the Township can keep the equipment, but will have to budget the salaries.

Joseph Hudak, who has served as acting Township engineer, was appointed Engineer on Monday night. He will fill the term of former engineer Frank Quinby, and then be appointed on his own, Mayor Wallace said.

The Princeton Water Company has appealed the rate increase granted in August to the Appellate Division of Superior Court. The company did not get as much of an increase from the Public Utilities Commission as it had applied for.

Work will begin late next week on remodeling of Township Hall. Pickwick, Inc., of Farmingdale, won the contract with a $38,000 bid. Alterations will give almost every police department its own work area.

AGENDA ITEMS SET

By School Board. A schedule of public meetings of the Princeton Regional Board of Education through February 8, 1971, will be distributed at next Tuesday's meeting of the board.

The agenda also includes the annual audit of school

Over-Heated Fall

The equinox
Is at the door
Isn't summer
Any more?

Summer is officially past, but you'd never know it by the thermometer. Readings around 90 have been a daily part of the picture this week, although they have fallen a few degrees short of all-time records for late September.

Showers are a possibility Thursday, but are not expected to cool us off very much. The unseasonable heat will last at least through Friday. The weekend will bring the first football of the year, but really crisp weather is still a week or two away.

funds, providing board members themselves receive the audit by this Friday.

Announcement will be made concerning the Long Range Planning Committee's "preliminary, interim report," as board member William Marvel phrased it. The interim report is due in mid-October, with the final report, an estimated 50-60 page document, due in early 1971.

The agenda will include a report on fire safety by board member Henry Pownser, and Mrs. Evelyn Geddes will discuss the County Board of Freeholders' delay of two new vocational schools which are planned for shared-time basis by all county schools. Mrs. Kathleen Edwards noted at the session that "28% of our tax dollar is going to the county to support vocational education school (in Trenton) and only two students from Princeton are enrolled."

The board went into executive session at the close of the agenda meeting to discuss formal ratification of contracts with the Custodial Association and with the school administrators. These items may be included in Tuesday's agenda.

The state has mandated four workshops for teachers of grades 7 through 12 on drug abuse. Timing and expenditures are under discussion by the board. A two part survey on attitudes of the faculty towards the program is complete and the whole matter may be on Tuesday's agenda.

As part of the Federal Government's national survey of free lunch programs, parents will receive a letter of inquiry from the board. The number of children taking advantage of the program may rise to 60 a day.

As this was the first public agenda meeting, board President Dr. John Marks explained the ground rules for the public: personnel matters, grievances and "sensitive issues" will be discussed only in executive session; the public cannot participate in the board's discussions and no demonstrations will be tolerated.

From the audience at the close of the hour-and-a-half session came a suggestion that the board review its role and practices in view of state laws, and an inquiry was made on the status of the school board policy revision study, mentioned last spring. The board said that nothing had been done so far.

Board members at the session also included Robert Beerman, Dr. William Abrams, Philip Cruickshank and Winthrop Pike.

FLY-ASH GLOOM

Can Incinerator Meet Standards? "We're not optimistic that our incinerator equipment will ever meet state standards," admitted Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week. "Publicity has focused on the long range problem, but the immediate problem is more pressing: if we have to make major alterations, what are we going to do in the meantime?"

The state has set a November 5 deadline for compliance with air pollution standards, and a gloomy Sewer Operating Committee met last week and predicted that November 5 is too soon for clean air.

Mayors Robert W. Cawley for the Borough and John D. Wallace for the Township hope to bring their governing bodies together October 7 to discuss the critical incinerator prohlem.

"We have a great sense of urgency," Mayor Cawley emphasized, but so much money is involved!"

The Leckenhee Company, manufacturers of Princeton's once-vaunted scrubber, guaranteed the scrubber would bring Princeton's incinerator up to standards. Members of the Sewer Operating Committee would like to see the state exert pressure on Leckenhee to make good.

Neighhors of the sewer incinerator plant continue to complain about odors. A new centrifuge will spin out liquids so that smelly drying beds will no longer be needed, says Donald Harney, Borough engineer.

CYCLIST, BUS COLLIDE

Youth Seriously Injured. An 18 year-old Kingston youth was seriously injured Saturday morning when he apparently changed his mind about making a turn and swerved back into the path of a Suburban Transit bus.

Taken to Princeton Hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad was Albert J. Bernard Jr., 18, of Route 27, Kingston. He was admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit, suffering from head and internal injuries and a compound fracture of the leg. A hospital spokesman on Tuesday reported that Mr. Bernard was still on the critical list but improving satisfactorily.

The mishap took place about 300 feet north of Laurel Avenue at 9:10 a.m. According to State Police, the cyclist gave a signal to turn left and the bus attempted to pass him on the right. Apparently, Mr. Bernard then decided at the last moment to continue on and swerved into the side of the bus.

No charges have been made against the bus driver, George M. Williams, 26, of New Brunswick, by Trooper Edward Pitko, the investigating officer. A charge of operating a motor cycle without a cyclist's license against Mr. Bernard is pending.

PUT ON PROBATION

For Heroin Use. In Borough court last week, John Huston, 18, 92 Riverside Drive, was placed on six months probation with Borough court for being under the influence of heroin.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. suspended a 90 day sentence to the Mercer County Work house against Huston and ordered him to pay $10 court costs. Huston pleaded guilty to the charge brought by Sgt John J. Bellow.

The identical sentence — six months probation, suspended 90 day sentence, and $10 costs — was handed down to Paul Antal, 18, 244 Nassau Street. Antal pleaded guilty to taking $130 August 6 from a cash box belonging to the complainant, Lawrence Tolve, also 244 Nassau.

Edward S. Dugger, 42, of Trenton, was sentenced to 14 days in Mercer County Jail on each of two charges. One, for loitering and being under the influence of alcohol September 2 in the area of Nassau Street and Palmer Square, and, two, for interfering with, molesting and obstructing the passage of a pedestrian. Both sentences were to run concurrently.

Since the defendant had already spent the 14 days in jail, he was released.

TO LOSE LICENSE

For Speeding. William E. Miller, 48, 21 Jefferson Road, was fined $30 Monday in Borough court by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. for speeding 60 miles in a 35 mile zone.

Judge Tams also recommended that Mr. Miller's license be revoked but left the duration up to the state's Motor Vehicle Department. He pleaded guilty.

In other cases, Ralph Matarese, 17, 14 Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, paid $15

ROSES AND RHUBARB

BY DON ALLEN

BUCK FEVER . . .

What I have to say is going to date me, but perhaps there are a few of you who have wondered as I, about the passing from popularity of the word "buck". When I was a kid, "Buck" was a household word. Witness, buckboard, buck-tooth, and bucksaw (a huge saw, not to be confused with "sawbuck", which is a $10.00 bill). Our heroes were all named Buck. Buck Rogers, the comic strip spaceman, and Buck Jones, that colorful cowboy of the Saturday matinee movie set. And then there was the virile writings of Pearl Buck, and that fearless, bring 'em back alive, big game hunter Frank Buck. Quite naturally the toughest boy on the block was called "Buck". All of these things perpetuated a certain little boy reverence for the term "Buck". It was only a natural progression, I suppose, that a certain impressionable young boy should grow up to become a florist and be obsessed with a "buck" flower special.

The term "buck" today as a synonym for the dollar bill, should most properly be printed in lower case type, so singularly ineffective has it become in terms of buying power.

On the other hand, considering the complete reversal of inflationary trends rampant in today's economy, in terms of what $1.00 will buy at Allen's Flowers famous weekend flower specials. I think it should be printed in capital letters, bold faced, and underlined. Certainly at Allen's we are doing all we can to restore your confidence in THE BUCK. Yes, THE BUCK is alive and well and thriving at Allen's. Just read this list and believe it if you can.

News Of The THEATRES

"CURIOUS (YELLOW)" In McCarter Series. You'll have to wait until February, but if you're still around then, you can see "I am Curious (Yellow)" when McCarter brings it for Princeton premiere as part of the New Cinema Series.

Subscriptions for a complete series of 12 Tuesday evenings are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

Before February is October and the series will open Tuesday, October 13, at 8 p.m. with Agnes Varda's "Lions Love," featuring a menage a trois composed of Viva (that's Warhol's superstar) and Rado and Ragni, the creators of "Hair."

From Warhol's own factory comes "Flesh," by Paul Morrisey who used to be Andy's cameraman. It deals with the world of the male hustler.

Two films will explore young life styles of the past. "Out of It," a nostalgic view of American high school life in 1960 (here's Jon Voight from "Midnight Cowboy" in his first screen appearance); and "Three," from James Salter, the story of three college graduates on a summer fling in Europe.

Two documentaries will be introduced, in person, by their creators. "Other Voices," dealing with a mental health clinic in Bucks County, will be presented by David Sawyer and "Hospital" will be introduced by its maker, Frederick Wiseman — he did "Titicut Follies."

New directors in the series include Zelimir Zilnik from Yugoslavia, Susan Sontag, the American essayist; Peter Bogdanovich and James Mc Bridge

THREE ACTORS RETURN For McCarter Company. Robert Blackburn, actor-director, will return to McCarter for the 1970-71 drama season, and so will Beth Dixon and Richard Pilcher.

Mr. Blackburn played the ominous McCann in last year's production of Pinter's "The Birthday Party"; and Benedick in "Much Ado About Nothing." He directed "Of Mice and Men" and "Ah, Wilderness."

Mr. Pilcher was the young hero of "Ah, Wilderness" and Miss Pilcher has played Masha in "The Three Sisters," Aunt Lily in "Ah, Wilderness" and Foible in Congreve's "The Way of the World." This will be her third season at McCarter.

This year's drama season will open Friday, October 16 with Arthur Lithgow's production of Arthur Miller's "All My Sons."

The second play to enter the repertory will be Lorraine

DINE WITH TOM JONES

Historical Benefit. Dinner, followed by "Tom Jones" will constitute the evening's program for the fourth annual benefit of the Princeton Historical Society on Tuesday October 13.

Mrs. Bruce H. French is chairman of the dinner. Her assistants are Mrs. Walter Fullam and Mrs. Nathaniel Burt.

The dinner will be held at the Nassau Inn. "Tom Jones" will be shown at the Playhouse, and tickets and reservations for either or both may be obtained at Bainbridge House, the Society's 158 Nassau headquarters. Theatre tickets may also be purchased at the Playhouse box office.

"Tom Jones," once called "the best comedy ever made" and a "roaring entertainment" won the Best Picture award of the New York Film Critics for films made in 1963. It stars Albert Finney and, equally, the director Tony Richardson.

Proceeds from previous benefits have helped the Society restore Bainbridge House to its original 18th century state, and to carry out such projects as the Hudibras Tavern "dig." The exhibit's catalogue won a Williamsburg Award.

man occupation of Paris and was intended to be an expression of French resistance. The message was so subtly entwined in the play that the Nazis readily allowed its production. Following the war, in 1949, it was produced in London with Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivian Leigh in the lead roles.

"We feel that an Anouilh play directed by Brendan Burke is a most auspicious way to celebrate an anniversary," says Mrs. Marie Miller, acting president of the Players.

Mr Burke played the title role in McCarter Theatre's presentation of Charley's Aunt," two seasons ago, and directed Theater Intime's "Heartbreak House, for which he also designed the costumes.

Try-outs for the play will be held during the week of September 27th. IT'S NEW To Us

YARN SHOP OPENS

On Palmer Square, H. P. Clayton packed up its yarn and art needlework department, needles, wools, canvas and all, and moved it into an attractive little shop a few doors away on Palmer Square.

The Yarn Shop opened last week with a flurry of customers who found intriguing new projects as well as items that had more or less been hidden away in the crowded main store, such as the extremely beautiful embroidery samplers reproduced from the treasures of Colonial Williamsburg.

You'll see a great many new ideas in crewel embroidery. The house of Dritz has provided a series of whimsical little creatures, from tiny mice in the wheat to calico cats, to embroider on pure Belgian linen and then frame. The Dritz kits are about $6. with wool and linen provided.

The famous Elsa Williams designs for crewel pictures and pillows come on a heavier linen. There's a richly-leaved tree that's very medieval in style, and a delicate rose garland in early Victorian mood among them. Perhaps the most intriguing is a prancing white Lippizaner pony in the center of a wreath of blue flowers, planned for a round pillow.

Another designer recognized throughout the crewel world is Erica Wilson, and the Yarn Shop has a fine selection of her work. There's a country scene, for instance, and an autumn-mood cameo of a red breasted bird perched on a branch of green and yellow leaves.

For the patriotic, the Yarn shop has the famous bald eagle to embroider on a shield of red, white and blue. There's a gold frame that comes with the kit.

Just Starting? The Yarn Shop has beginners' kits in attractive, simplified designs. The work area is about 5" x 5" on a 13 x 13 piece of linen, and it's suitable for a pillow, or a book cover, or why not? framing ($2.50).

The tea cozy by Louise A. Chrimes is more complex, featuring a graceful, trailing pattern that is very 18th Century. The kit includes nylon batting for interfacing. Or, you might take on the project of stitching a clock face. The Yarn Shop kit includes the mechanisms and a battery.

Turning to another side of the shop, you'll see Laplander afghan kits with colors that range from muted grays to a sharp streak of red; "Granny" afghans with bright, harmonious squares; and others in lacy daisy patterns.

Knitting projects to keep in mind include fringed shawls to knit or crochet, and infants' sweaters. We noticed a raglan sleeve cardigan that would be sure to fit the child's shoulders ($2.50).

Clayton's has carried the Minerva-Columbia yarns for years, and the new shop has added a heavy Canadian wool

News Of The Theatres

"Bonnie," sometimes called "THE" picture of 1967 which wasn't all that long ago will be shown Friday at 7 and again at 9:15 p.m.

"Elvira" will have two showings, also — one at 7 and one at 9 — on Saturday. This is the Swedish film in which Pia Degermark and Thommy Berggren star as the young lovers.

Tickets may be purchased at the McCarter box office from 10 a.m. the morning of the day of performance, and at the door that evening if any are left.

NEW WORK COMING

With Graham Company. A new work, still untitled, will be danced in Princeton by the Martha Graham Dance Company on Sunday, October 11 at 4 p.m. in McCarter Theatre. The premiere of the new composition will take place in the Brooklyn Academy of Music the preceding week.

Also on the Graham Princeton program will be "Diversion of Angels," one of the most popular Graham works with score by Norman Dello Joio, and Mrs. Graham's humorous classic, "Every Soul is a Circus."

Subscriptions for the four event dance series are on sale at the box office. Other attractions are the dancers of both Israel and Poland and the Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre.

THE LANDLORD. Pearl Bailey in a sharpshooting scene with Beau Bridges, the man who takes the rent, from the film now at the Garden Theatre.

Like Children's Theatre?

Anybody would like to help organize and run a children's theatre is invited to a meeting this Thursday of "The Monkey's of the Organ Grinder or A Hairy Farce for the Stout of Heart."

"The Monkey's" will also play Friday and Saturday with performances at 7:30 and 9 p.m. Reservations may be made at 201 828 2750.

BRECHT BACK

In New Brunswick. The de luxe size coffee house theatre called Brecht West is back at 61 Albany Street in New Brunswick with an opening this Thursday of "The Monkey's of the Organ Grinder or A Hairy Farce for the Stout of Heart."

"The Monkey's" will also play Friday and Saturday with performances at 7:30 and 9 p.m. Reservations may be made at 201 828 2750.

"The Monkey's" is by Ken Bernard, and after its Brecht West production, it will play Cafe La Mama, off off-Broadway in New York. The company performing at Brecht West is part of the London company of Cafe La Mama. John Vaccaro is directing.

Fund raising is part of the curtain raising at Brecht West.

The company had a grant last season, but so far doesn't have one.

PLAYHOUSE

2001: A Space Odyssey (now playing). The epic science fiction film — color, superPanavision and all — returns to Princeton with its strange space craft, mammouth space station and a crisis on the moon.

A stone slab, found in a moon crater, is giving off deafening beeping sounds. The sounds are directed to Jupiter and that is why an expeditionary force of five astronauts is dispatched to that planet — which is still unexplored.

The odyssey includes some exciting episodes and a forceful look at the dangers to mankind inherent in the creation of intricate machines that can get out of control.

The actors include Keir Dullea, Gary Lockwood and William Sylvester. Douglas Rain, the voice of the computer called "Hal," gives him more personality than any other character in the film. The photography of Geoffrey Unsworth is breathtaking, and the sets are fantastic. (160 minutes)

GARDEN

The Landlord (now playing) has a curious mixture of stylistic approaches that makes it a film for the advanced moviegoer. The attractive cast is headed by Beau Bridges as the title character; Lee Grant as his mother, Diana Sands and Pearl Bailey as tenants, and Marki Bey as the Negro Irish girl.

The story concerns a weal thy young man who buys a brownstone in a black ghetto and while trying to get the tenants out, comes to know and respect them. In some cases the admiration is returned.

There's a romance — the hero falls in love with the girl of mixed parentage — and soap opera — he has an affair with a married tenant who becomes pregnant with the result that her husband goes berserk and almost kills the landlord.

The film is full of a variety of photographic and editing devices that wobble from one episode to the next. Color tones change madly. Miss Sands is excellent; Bridges is appealing, and the Misses Bailey and Grant have a hilarious drunk sequence together. Filmed in New York, with various rock groups singing at intervals throughout the film.

Candide," for bulky knits. A pure wool, it comes in the natural tones for Aran-type sweaters, and in beautiful, tint-flecked colors.

Needlepoint at the Yarn Shop ranges from very small projects to great undertakings such as a Constable painting. The central designs are completed in some; others you have to start from scratch. The Danish pillow patterns are extra nice.

The shop also has needlepoint canvas for upholstery, including a lovely shell pattern, and black canvas of various meshes. You can also browse through the catalogues and order.

PRAIRIE PRINTS ARE IN At Princeton Clothing. Men's shirts keep getting more eloquent, with the younger men leading their elders into brighter colors and changes in design.

Princeton Clothing on Witherspoon Street has a way of keeping abreast of the needs of both generations, including body shirts for the young ones in marvelous prairie days prints and stripes. These have the new puff sleeve above a three-button cuff. Made of dacron-and cotton, with no ironing problems, the sport shirts call for the wide leather belts and jeans.

Dress shirts at Princeton Clothing will meet a variety of tastes. There are fancy stripes such as rust and gray or solids in rich earth colors. The great demand is for tapered shirts with long, pointed collars and a two-button cuff.

There's a color known as "grape" today that another generation called "heliotrope" and Princeton Clothing finds that it isn't only the young man who is buying shirts in this color. Prices in dress shirts range from $6.50 to $9, and in sports shirts from $5 to $10.

This is the year of the sleeveless sweater. Princeton Clothing has some very attractive, scoop-necked versions in heather yarns that are designed to be matched with a coordinate shirt in a solid color. Most of the season's sweaters are rib knits in solid colors or stripes. Prices range from $10 to $15.

This fall, the argyle pattern is making a comeback, and Princeton Clothing has a good selection in socks-navy and kelly green diamonds, for instance, crossed with a yellow bar; or Copenhagen blue with gray and a black stripe for accent. ($2.)

In the way of accessories, Apache ties of silk of course and ties in tapestry weaves. Paisley and polkadot prints are coming on strong. Belts are wide and emphatic, often featuring laced through cross straps, or combining calf with suede.

Sport coats at Princeton Clothing include corduroys in both Norfolk and regular styles. There are tweeds and solids in good wools. And there's a choice of two button, three-button and double breasted styles. The prices start at $35 and go to $67.50.

There is so much packed into Princeton Clothing that a man could walk out of there clothed for any and all occasions for the rest of his days: heavy, cold weather jackets with pile linings, pin stripe suits, levis, top coats (including McGregor's heavy stadium coat), and hats ranging from the Rex Harrison tweeds to Stetsons.

Even red suspenders. (Or purple, if you prefer!)

WHAT'S IN THE CAGE?

Not Crickets! Hopewell has a browsing spot known as The Cricket Cage. It was named from the Chinese custom of keeping a cricket on the hearth for good luck. Cricket cages imported here a century or more ago are now valuable antiques.

And antiques are what you will find at the Cricket Cage from the Victorian front door with the crank around brass bell to the doll filled rear room. The shop specializes in antique dolls, and Mrs. Donald Wall buys, and sells and repairs them.

You'll also see rugs, lamps, furniture, china, and wall hangings. And there's a boutique with capes, fur hats, scarves and purses.

The Cricket Cage is at Blackwell Avenue and Rail road Place, opposite the train station.

Memo to:

All Citizens of Mercer County

From:

W. Harry Sayen

Republican County Chairman

Mercer County can be improved — must be improved. Two decades of machine rule at County Level must be ended. Please read my letter, and join the cause!

Sept. 21, 1970

Dear Fellow Citizen:

I am new in politics. I have entered politics for two reasons: the first is to try and interest more people in taking an active part in the party structure; secondly, to try to attract better candidates for public office.

In light of these reasons, I am writing a letter to you, via this newspaper, to ask for your help in the coming campaign.

As I travel about Mercer County, I have heard the complaint voiced innumerable times — "how may I participate?"

I am sure there are hundreds of individuals in Mercer County who feel this way. They want to participate — but haven't been asked. They want to improve their County government — but don't know where to start.

I felt this way three years ago. I asked the same questions.

Now I am asking you, who are interested I am sure, in improving our County, to help in the present campaign by calling 392-5165, or writing to me in care of The Republican County Committee, second floor, 176 West State Street, Trenton, New Jersey.

We need you.

Lawrence Township folks aren't very excited about First National's new branch...

HERE'S OUR "GET EXCITED" PLAN.

It's asking quite a bit to expect people to get excited about a bank. Even ours. There are lots of banks. And they look more or less alike. But we think you'll agree that none of them has a monkey. Princeton's First National does. For our opening. His name is Bongo. We have some other things too. Like extra banking hours at our drive-in. In addition to which, it's nice to know that area folks have been calling us the friendly bank for more than three-quarters of a century. Even before the monkey. Come in and meet Bongo. And our manager too. Neither one bites.

There is indeed an unacceptable conflict of stories, replied Judge Bryant. Earlier he had agreed to a motion by attorney Heher to dismiss the

OFFICERS ARE ABSOLVED

Of Assault Charges. A Borough patrolman and two University security officers were found not guilty of assault and battery Tuesday in Borough court.

After a day-long trial, which was out of the ordinary because the defendants were all officers, acting Judge Donald E. Bryant Jr., found Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt, 31, Emeric Kun, 59, and Russell Shangle, 36, of 438 Nassau Street, innocent of the charges that had been lodged against them by Mrs. Dorothy Skipworth, 19 Lytle Street. Mrs. Skipworth had made the charges in behalf of her son, Recardo, 17.

The alleged assaults took place against young Skipworth on campus and on Nassau Street around 3 a.m., June 6 during reunion weekend.

Judge Bryant agreed to hear the case when Borough Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. withdrew because of his familiarity with the defendants. Midway in the hearing, Judge Bryant told counsel for both sides that it was an unusual and "touchy" case, and "that any decision I make is going to be unpopular with someone."

Officers Shangle and Kun were represented by attorney Garrett M. Heher; Ptl. Lenhardt by Phillip S. Carchmann and Skipworth by John E. Wherry Jr.

Details Are Involved. Skipworth told the court an involved story that Judge Bryant patiently tried to tie together in proper sequence. It began after Skipworth left a dance at Dillon Gym around midnight. Parts of the mosaic he wove for the court included a visit to Holder Hall, his attack by four unidentified youths from a car on the University side of Nassau Street, an alleged attack by Shangle and Lenhardt and two students on campus, followed by his arrest by Lenhardt on Palmer Square.

On separate occasions Skipworth reported being struck by Shangle, kicked by Officer Kun and hit by Ptl. Lenhardt. He was accompanied by his older brother, Freddie 18, and Wesley Hines, 17, 12 Leigh Avenue, and Thomas Good win, 18, of Clay Street, all of whom also testified.

"Someone is lying." The defendants told completely different versions. "The whole issue is solely one of credibility; someone is lying," said Mr. Wherry in his summation.

charge against Mr. Shangle because there was no evidence in any of the testimony to support it.

He dismissed the charge against officer Kun, saying "I can't imagine him running across a street and trying to kick a young man." Skipworth had testified Officer Kun had come from campus across Nassau Street and kicked him and his older brother while Patrolman Lenhardt was arresting him. Skipworth, then, allegedly punched Officer Kun in the face, breaking his denture and bloodying his nose.

Judge Bryant said that Ptl. Lenhardt, as a police officer, had a duty to enforce the law and uphold the peace of the community, and that he had an obligation to put Ricky Skipworth under arrest for striking Officer Kun. He also had a duty to try to subdue him. "I don't feel there is evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that he struck Skipworth in pursuit of his duties," he said, dismissing the charge.

Judge Bryant also said that he was sympathetic to Mrs. Skipworth. "She went to a lot of effort to try to get justice for her son which is admirable," he commented. Mrs. Skipworth had allegedly told her lawyer that she had twice been denied in her attempt to file a complaint before obtaining counsel.

APRONS ON SALE AT BID N' BUY FAIR: Mrs. William Higgins displays one of the aprons created by her and Mrs. Larry Bottle that will be on sale Saturday, October 3, at the Bid n' Buy Fair in Rocky Hill. With her is her son, Brad, who will be more interested in hot dogs like the one he is holding.

BID N' BUY COMING

Oct. 3 in Rocky Hill. The Rocky Hill Community Group is getting ready for its once a year all out town effort to raise funds for the town's public library and its other activities. The occasion is the Bid n' Buy Auction and Fair, planned from 10 to 5, Saturday, October 3, in Rocky Hill.

The auction will offer at "small town prices" a Gruman suit boat, a large wing chair with gold brocade upholstery plus a slipcover in perfect condition, marble topped pier table, antique lace and ivory fan, ivory handled lace parasol circa 1860, antique silver and lovely old portable writing desk, chests, andirons and fire screens, wrought iron table and four chairs, color t.v., air conditioners, silver lorgnette, lamps and fine china, plus furniture and many other outstanding items.

There will be a White Elephant booth with dresses by Lilly and Anne Fogarty as well as other clothing in excellent condition, dinner services, kitchen casseroles and cooking utensils, linens, Spanish language records and hundreds of other things donated. There is going to be a separate White Elephant Table for children filled with books, toys, games and records.

A fortune teller will be on hand on the ball field in Rocky Hill for the children (and adults). Squirt gun shooting out of candle flames, throwing wet sponges at pretty girls, spin art, face painting—these are just a few of the activities for children.

New this year will be a Christmas booth with handsome Advent calendars made of felt, skirts for Christmas trees and all sort of intriguing and wonderful tree and house ornaments.

The handicrafts booth is the product of many creative women and teenagers in the Rocky Hill area. There will be

PERMIT FEE RAISED

For Paddle Tennis. The fee for a season's permit for use of the two paddle tennis courts at Community Park is going up from $5 to $7.50 for the new season, starting October 1.

The increase was necessary, said recreation executive director R. Donald Barr, to balance a $1450 deficit between income to date and an anticipated revenue of $67,619 for the year. Tennis daily admission fees would make up the rest.

A paddle tennis permit allows the holder to reserve the court during prime playing hours. Otherwise the courts are free. Mr. Barr reported that plans are to form a men's, women's and possibly a couples' league in paddle tennis.

Last year, 140 persons purchased paddle tennis permits. Mr. Barr further reported that the courts have received increasing use from children. "We're very pleased with that," he said. "Paddle tennis is a lot easier to learn than tennis."

Support for Dance Groups. The board has announced that it will support two community dance groups. Its support will be in the form of providing free use of public school rooms. "I've talked with members of the Board of Education and they feel the schools are for the community and should be utilized," Mr. Barr said.

Bill Mills, spokesman for a modern western square dancing group, told the board at its meeting last week that his group meets Friday nights and had been paying $27.50 rent for use of the all-purpose room at Riverside School. The rental of a school room is now about $50 a night, Mr. Barr reported.

Leo Ahrens, spokesman for a folk dancing group which meets Sunday evenings at Valley Road School, told the board his group had been paying $20.50 a night. An average of 70 to 80 attend the dances regularly, he said.

In exchange for Recreation sponsorship, the groups agreed to submit periodic financial statements to the board to in

School Commuters Can Take Late Bus

If you stay after school for sports, for something more sedentary in the way of extra-curricular activity or if you just stay to get a little more help from teacher, you can now hop a "Late Bus" and make it home in time for supper.

There isn't any actual bus route because of the need for flexibility but the schools will try to drop students "reasonably close" to home.

"Late Bus" service applies to the Middle School and to Johnson Park, Littlebrook and Riverside. Service at the Middle School has been expanded this year to provide an earlier "Late Bus" (the 4:15) for students who might want to remain at school for only a short time.

Intramural sports have also been re-scheduled to accommodate students who might not want the usual full two-hour round of after school sports.

Littlebrook and Riverside — Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Buses leave at 4 p.m.

Johnson Park — Every Tuesday and Thursday — 4 p.m.

Princeton Middle School — Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday — 4:15 p.m.

Buses leave the Middle School at 5:15 p.m. every day, including Wednesday.

Mr. Barr also revealed that he is working on a revision of the process of selecting non residents who wish to purchase permits to the pool and tennis complex.

The possible revision involves persons who do not live in Princeton but own property or businesses here and who pay taxes. We feel that these people should have some priority over non residents who have no attachment at all to Princeton Mr. Barr commented.

Obituaries

Delos C. "Dutch" Schoch, 56, head golf coach at Princeton University and former coach of crew, died Saturday morning while playing on the 12th hole on the Springdale golf course. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Schoch, who served as crew coach from 1946 to 1965, was forced to relinquish that role following a coronary attack in Mexico in August, 1964. On advice of his doctors, he assumed other duties within the Department of Athletics, one of which was coaching varsity golf.

A native of Everett, Wash., and a 1937 graduate of the University of Washington, Mr. Schoch was a member of the 1936 Washington crew which won the Olympic eight-oared championship at Berlin.

He came to Princeton in 1938 as assistant coach of crew under Fred Spuhn and remained here until 1942, departing for service in the Navy. During his naval career, he was associated with the physical fitness program, serving both in this country and in the Pacific theater. He returned to Princeton in 1946 as crew coach.

Mr. Schoch's 1947 crews became the first Princeton eights ever to "sweep the river" against Cornell and Yale, taking the varsity, junior varsity and freshman races at Derby, Conn. In 1948 his varsity eight reached the Olympic Try Out Finals before bowing to the University of California. Four years later, his Princeton crew again reached the finals, this time losing to Navy.

Mr. Schoch closed out his career as rowing coach by defeating Navy in four consecutive years, from 1962 to 1965, and by winning the Childs Cup (awarded in competition among Princeton, Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania) in both 1964 and 1965.

In his five-year term as golf coach, Mr. Schoch's varsity teams compiled a 55-18 won-lost record. Directed by him, with a 15-1 record, took both the Eastern Intercollegiate Association championship and the Metropolitan Intercollegiate championship.

Mr. Schoch leaves his wife, the former Jane Bishop; two children: Sally Jane, and Fred V., the latter a sophomore at the University of Washington and a member of the varsity crew; and two sisters: Mrs. Harley Dagley of Los Angeles; and Mrs. Ward Martin of Charles Town, W. Va.

The funeral was held in the Princeton University Chapel. The Kimble Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Gilda Moss, 40, of 19 Empress Lane, Lawrence Township, died September 10 in Princeton Hospital. She was the wife of David Moss, former vice-president and general manager of Station WIWH.

A native of New York, Mrs. Moss was a graduate of Hunter College and president of the Central Jersey Alumnae Association. She was a member of Hadassah and the Religious Zionist of America. Mrs. Moss served as an instructor for the Trenton Hebrew Academy and as a teacher for the Brothers of Israel Sunday School.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a son, Howard Jr., and two daughters, Lisa and Ellen Beth, all at home.

The service was held in Schnitzbank Jewish Memorial Chapel, Trenton, with Rabbi Howard Hersch and Rabbi Albert Lewis officiating. Interment was in Beth Israel Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be made to the Trenton Hebrew Academy or to the American Cancer Society.

William P. Costic Sr., of Route 31, Hopewell, died September 17 in St. Francis Hospital.

He was a native of Plymouth, Pa., where he lived until moving 40 years ago to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Else of Hopewell. He was a member of the Musicians Local in Plymouth and the Knights of Columbus.

Also surviving are four other daughters, Mrs. James Gender of Maple Shade, Mrs. Gerald Warner of North Forestfield, Md., Miss Regina Costic and Miss Jessie A. Costic of Levittown; a son, William Costic Jr. of Levittown; and three sisters.

Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Vincent's Church, Plymouth. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Paul R. Huffman, 73, who lived on the New Jersey Neuro - Psychiatric Institute grounds, died September 17 in St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick.

Born in Trenton and a graduate of St. Mary's School and Cathedral High School, he was a former auto salesman, representing the Hoffman Motor Company of Trenton during the 1920's, as well as the Star, Durant, Moon, Roosevelt and Marmon car manufacturers.

He was employed at the Institute from 1956 until his retirement on August 1.

Hughes' Commission on the Status of Women in New Jersey. The report urged the creation of a women's bureau and made other recommendations for the advancement of women. Inquiries and applications may be directed to Elizabeth Hagen, 48 Merion Place, Lawrenceville, 08648.

FOUR CASES LISTED

For Borough Zoning Board. The Borough Zoning Board will hear four applications Thursday evening at 8 in Borough Hall.

Henry Campbell, 38 Chestnut Street, will ask permission to convert an existing accessory building in the rear of property he owns at 41½ Chestnut to a dwelling. Mr. Campbell needs relief from several yard requirements. In addition, the proposed dwelling is placed the wrong way on a substandard lot.

William F. Holton, 35 Humbert Street, needs a minor adjustment from the board to build an outside stairway to a second floor apartment. His house is located in an R4 zone.

Serena B. Weisberg and Huguette Roberts need a conditional use permit to convert half of a double house at 14 Moore Street into joint occupancy use. Located in a residential office zone, the house would be converted into apartments and an office for an interior decorator.

The applicants also need site plan approval.

In a final case, Public Service will apply for a conditional use authorization for expansion of its electrical facilities at its brick substation at 15 Wiggins Street.

Peter DeMauro Jr., Princeton dentist, who earlier in the summer won approval from the board to convert a double house at 14 Vandeventer into a dental office for himself and apartments will appear again, probably to ask the board to reconsider the number of off street parking spaces he must provide.

His return is the result of the failure of the Site Plan Review Board to approve formally his conversion plan as outlined before the zoning board.

It wasn't disapproved by the site plan committee, the motion to approve just wasn't carried," reported Bernard Glover, zoning board officer.

APPEAL DROPPED

By Lombardo. Martin P. Lombardo announced Uhl's week that he will withdraw the appeal he has pending before the Appellate Division of Superior Court in regard to the 1969 Borough Council election.

Last January, Judge George Barlow of Superior Court ruled that Mr. Lombardo lost a Borough Council seat to Charles Cornforth by one vote. Mr. Lombardo appealed the decision in briefs filed this summer.

The Appellate calendar is so crowded that the appeal can probably not be heard until after Election Day. Mr. Lombardo is again a Democratic candidate for Borough Council. If he won both the election and the appeal, he could have ended up with a pair of Council seats.

In his statement this week, Mr. Lombardo said he was withdrawing his appeal "to avoid any confusion which could occur after the forthcoming election."

He also stated that he will invite Mr. Cornforth to join with him in dismissing the appeal. Mr. Cornforth says he has not yet heard from Mr. Lombardo, however.

Mr. Lombardo also said he will ask the state legislature for a bill giving Superior Court judges the right to determine the validity of ballots. Judge Barlow said in his decision that if he had had jurisdiction to rule on the ballots he would have declared one of them invalid. This would have made a Lombardo Cornforth tie.

REPUBLICAN OPEN HOUSE: Headquarters, at 3 Spring Street, will be open from 9:30 to 5, Monday through Friday, under the eye of Mrs. Lawrence Spellman (shown here), executive secretary of the Princeton Republican Club. That's Charles Meyer with her — he's Republican candidate for the single seat on Township Committee. Headquarters telephone is 924-6150.

Ballots and Booze?

The state of New Jersey announced not long ago that political corruption and alcohol aren't necessarily linked and that bars and liquor stores can therefore stay open on Election Day.

Depending, said the state in its wisdom, on what the town wants. The Borough of Princeton shrugged the matter off—there wasn't a parallel ordinance on the Borough's books anyway.

But the Township—more staid, perhaps?—has an ordinance sternly forbidding bars and liquor stores to remain open so long as the polls are open. In the light of the state's new revelation, an ordinance will be introduced next month by Township Committee repealing the old law.

Election Day is November 3. Will the public hearing be held in time?

Safety Measures Urged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The intersection of Nassau Street and Snowden Lane (Riverside) is a death trap. Sooner or later there is going to be a major fatal accident there unless a traffic light is placed at that spot.

A traffic light at this intersection is indicated — and it seems to be quite as important as the light at Harrison and Nassau. Traffic from Kingston moves at a comparatively fast rate.

There is a STOP sign but it is just not enough. Drivers do not have a clear view when they stop at Snowden Lane on Riverside. They must inch on and often trust to luck which is highly dangerous.

Please check your own records to see if there have been accidents at this corner.

Both Borough and Township intersect here — and the responsible authorities have an opportunity to save lives. Of course, it is costly, but this argument does not hold where lives are concerned.

Let us have that traffic light before it is too late.

L. L. SNYDER

21 Dogwood Lane

Editor's note: Last week, Township police moved the "STOP" line on Snowden Lane up closer to Nassau and painted a large "STOP" on the Snowden pavement. Bushes and underbrush at the corner have also been sharply trimmed back to increase visibility.

The brick gateway on the corner property is not a particular problem, according to Sgt. Anthony Nini, Traffic Officer for the Township. "Coming out of Riverside you don't have clear vision," he concedes, chiefly because of two or three very large trees.

For eight or nine years, the Township's Traffic Safety Committee has talked from time to time with the state about installing a traffic light at the intersection. State officials, after making counts, have always said there was not enough traffic to warrant a light.

There were no accidents at the intersection in 1969, Sgt. Nini reports; no accidents at Riverside-Nassau so far this year, and one at Snowden-Nassau.

"Princeton Plan" Defended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Some letters have appeared recently that deprecated the "Princeton Plan" of allowing students and faculty a pre-election recess. May I offer some personal thoughts on this matter?

First, for the umpteenth time, this recess in no way shortens our fall semester. Students and faculty have cut short their summer vacations, are giving up any Thanksgiving break and will start the end-of-term reading period later to make up these two weeks. Second, the pre-election period is not only for radicals or liberals but for conscionable individuals of all political persuasions to participate in and learn about our system of government.

It is more than a right or a privilege; it is a responsibility, an obligation, for all citizens to participate in the election process. What better way to strengthen and insure the viability of our political system than to educate citizens of all ages in it and encourage their participation?

The primary obligation of a university is to educate. That education, if it is to be of any benefit to the students, must include their relationship with and responsibility to society.

A university would shirk an important obligation if it turned out baccalaureates that did not appreciate the full effect of their civic duties. In that sense, the pre-election recess enlarges our fall semester; it lengthens the teaching period by two weeks.

The silliest comments are those that bemoan the alleged absence of such a period for non-students. What prevents the non-student from going down to his precinct headquarters in the evening or on weekends? Laziness! Denying most of the students the right to vote should not preclude their participation in other phases of the political system.

Instructor, Department of Biology

What's the Problem?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It has come to my attention that the University has kept several perfectly livable rooms at 173 Nassau Street which once were used for housing, locked up for two years.

With the acute shortage of inexpensive (or any) housing in Princeton, I wonder if the University is acting as a very good citizen in this matter?

ESTHER ANN RYAN

Denial on Stickers Repeated.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I appreciate the attention you have given our organization in the past several months, particularly in publishing excerpts from the Statement of Concern of Princeton C.A.R.E.S. It has come to my attention, however, that there are still those who feel we are responsible for the "dump McPherson" campaign now in evidence in town.

Let me say, as I have in the past, that we did not introduce the program and did not provide the bumper stickers.

It is the intention of Princeton C.A.R.E.S. to elect a strong school board who will be truly representative of all the populace, who will see to it that the school administration adheres to guidelines and measurements in devising and implementing educational programs. That, in addition, they will be responsive to the legitimate concerns of taxpayers and parents in insuring we are getting the best (not necessarily synonomous with the most innovative) education for our tax dollars, and providing a firm foundation for the future of our Princeton boys and girls.

TEENS HELP HOSPITAL

As Volunteers. Several thousand hours of free service were given to Princeton Hospital patients by Junior Volunteers, or as they are traditionally called, "Candy Stripers."

"Students from 11 high schools in the tri-county Princeton Hospital service area responded to our appeal for help and we are very grateful," stated Mrs. Deborah L. Livingston, Director of Volunteers.

"Our Candy Stripers regularly assist or replace adult Volunteers on weekends and holidays, but during the summer they often completely take over voluntary duties," she said. Nicknamed "Candy Stripers" because they wear red and white striped uniforms the Junior Volunteers greet incoming patients and visitors at the reception desk; deliver mail, flowers and newspapers; shuttle the library and Aid Shop carts from room to room and help patients with daily menu selections.

They serve as hostesses and aides in the X-ray, laboratory and physical medicine departments and as couriers through out the Hospital.

Summer Candy Stripers were:

Princeton High School: Lenore Allen, Kim Armiger, Susan Aronson, Pam Anderson, Marsha Bardwell, Lindsay Blattner, Peggy Cevera, Carol Coultas, June Cramer, Lynn Duryea.

Barbara Guzy, Marion Hachenberg, Curry Hoover, Mary Carol Jones, Mindy Jones, Jean Marie Jones, Karen Kleiber, Carol Kurtz, Kathy Lawler, Andrea Limekiller, Janice Nini.

Terri Peifer, Nancy Quick, Debbie Richey, Carol Rooks, Joan Sassman, Karen Shangle, Laurie Studevant, Ann Thompson, Frances Walstad.

SCOUTS HIKE 50 MILES

On Appalachian Trail. The second annual 50-mile hike was completed this month by Boy Scouts of Troop 43, led by Frank Fernoff, Scoutmaster, and William Lawder, Jr., Assistant Scoutmaster. The boys who hiked the Appalachian Trail from near Caladonia State Park, Pa., through Maryland to the Virginia border were Jay Brenneman, Bill Frazier, George Hill, Philip Lamb, David Meyerhofer and Alex Stevenson.

In addition to completing this trip, the Scouts earned the 50-miler Award patch with ten hours of group work improving, cleaning and clearing the trail during the five days of the hike. Last year, they hiked the Appalachian Trail in Massachusetts.

Troop 43 is sponsored by The First Presbyterian Church of Princeton and meets each Monday at 7 p.m. Interested boys are welcome.

WHY HISTORY?

Society Plans Study Series. Princeton's history and the restoration thereof will be the subject of a four lecture series this October at Bainbridge House, headquarters of the Princeton Historical Society, 158 Nassau. The sessions are free to all, but registration should be made by calling Bainbridge House, 921-6748.

The sessions will be held four successive Tuesday mornings at 10:30 a.m. starting Tuesday, October 6. "Preservation and Restoration", the first subject, will be an on the job survey of work under way in the restoration of Bainbridge House, and a walking tour of nearby old houses not usually open to the public.

"Bainbridge House as Museum" is the subject for October 13; "Reading, Research and Related Subjects" will be considered October 20 when Historical Society officials describe the 4,000-volume library at Bainbridge House.

The series will conclude October 27 with an overall view, "Who Needs an Historical Society Anyhow?"

The sessions will be forums, rather than formal lectures. The Society also hopes to pick up some new members.

On November 4 at 8:15 p.m., Cecelia Hodges Drewry, assistant dean of the College at Princeton University, will give staged readings from black history in the lounge of the Engineering Quadrangle.

CHILD CARE AVAILABLE

Puppeteers' TV Special Will Have Premiere Here on Friday

Princeton's puppeteers, Paul and Mary Ritts of Scott Lane, will introduce their NBC TV special this Friday between 6 and 8 p.m. at Gallery 100, Nassau Street.

Titled, "For The Love of Fred," the movie was made in color in and around Princeton, marking the first time a major puppet show has been filmed outdoors.

The puppets — Fred the caterpiller and the well-known Ritts characters Sir Geoffrey and Magnolia — drive on Nassau Street in a Fiat, appear with children on playground swings, and with sheep on a Princeton area farm. Some of the filming was done at the Lawrenceville School.

The Princeton YMCA Rangers will be heard singing, "And They sing like angels," Paul Ritts says happily. "They have just the sound that I was looking for." He wrote, produced and directed the one hour show which innaugurates the NBC TV children's series this Saturday at 11.

FILMED IN PRINCETON: The Paul and Mary Rits production of "For the Love of Fred" includes many familiar scenes of Princeton. Above, on Nassau Street, are Paul Ritts, holding Sir Geoffrey, the giraffe, with Avery Chenoweth at the camera. At right, Mary Ritts and that Southern philosopher, Magnolia. (Avery Chenoweth Photos)

On TV for 18 years, Mary Ritts, a close partner with her husband on television since 1952, animates the sultry ostrich, Magnolia. Camera work is by Avery Chenoweth of Princeton, who also edited the film. The Ritts, 24 year old son Mark, a graduate of Princeton High School and Harvard College, served as assistant producer of the film and music director, is also the voice of Fred the catapiller and Wembley the stork.

It was Mark who found 7 year old Philippe Bloch who narrates the story. He is a student at St. Bernard's School in Manhattan, where Mark is a teacher. Mark has chosen music by many pop artists, including Miles Davis, Crosby Stills and Nash and the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble.

"For the Love of Fred" tells the story of a caterpiller who cannot turn into a butterfly because he doesn't know how to make a cocoon. His friends, Albert the Chipmunk, Sir Geoffrey the giraffe and Magnolia try to help.

"NBC wanted something on love," Mr. Ritts relates, "and we have tried to explain what love is."

The network is planning eight one hour programs for children, he said, all to be shown on Saturday mornings. There will be specials by Bill Cosby, David Brinkley and Jonathan Winters among others.

"Saturday is a big time for the children," Mr. Ritts says. "It's their Saturday night. NBC is doing more for children than any other network, except for Sesame Street."

Many Talents. The artistic talents of the Ritts family are formidable. In addition to the informal preview of the film on Friday, Gallery 100 will open an exhibit of their paintings, clear tranquil portraits by Mary and bright abstracts and landscapes by Paul.

Paul is also the author of a humorous book, "The TV Jeebies," and has written a television play, "The Quartet" produced several times by CBS Repertoire Workshop. He has been an actor, a director, producer, composer, announcer and — in the Air Force during World War II — a communications officer.

Mary has been "drawing since I was a child," and much of the beauty of the Ritts shows is due to her keen eye. And Mark seems to be following in his parents' footsteps. He gave magician shows during his high school years here. Now he is a teacher, a musician, disk jockey, puppeteer, singer and actor.

The Paul and Mary Ritts puppets have been seen on television since 1952, when their network show "In the Park" was first broadcast from WCAU, Philadelphia. For more than three years prior to that, Paul had directed "The Big Top" show for CBS. After the "human being" on their "Park" series decided to become a missionary, the Ritts puppets became regulars on the Jimmy Dean afternoon show. Then they moved on for a three-year stand on NBC where the Ritts and puppets were hosts on "The Family Show."

The puppets have been on the Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas programs. In addition to Saturday's special, they'll appear on the Mike Douglas program next Monday and, on October 6, on the Jane Wyman show.

AT THE ARTISAN

Mrs. Sharon's Work on View. Ruth Sharon views the world with the unique eyesight of the talented artist. A dreamlike quality pervades her recent drawings, watercolors and mobiles now showing at the Artisan.

The viewer is forced to participate both intellectually and emotionally; drawing one's own conclusion as to content and meaning can be a delightful exercise indeed.

Three themes, birds, stringed instruments and the human form dominate as a choice of subject matter. Musical instruments take on human aspect; an eye stares out from a violin fret. Mechanical gears become a part of the human breast or brain.

A simple bird form appears repeatedly in varied guises, encased in a human skull, in "Composure", a very tired, prone teacher in "Pupils", or as the victim in "Hung Bird". Uncountable numbers of them appear in an incredible etching. The original zinc plate is also on display in the gallery.

Visually Ruth Sharon's work is strongly linear, sometimes complicated, sometimes austere in its simplicity. Suspended forms are laced together with line in her two dimensional work.

The interwoven shapes of the three figures and violin in the water color "Sensuous Music" are done in softly glowing color reminiscent of stained glass.

The same skill in arranging suspended forms exhibited in her drawings is also apparent in her mobiles, constructed of multi-colored plastics they are colorful and exciting. One made of black elongated shapes and three clear crystal forms, however, was most pleasing in its elegance.

Ruth Sharon is a thoughtful artist often expressing disturbing emotions. Her feelings about man are expressed in several ways. The gears represent his mechanical existance, the invasion of birds his vulnerability to nature and the fragility of his existence.

Jerusalem, her birthplace, appears in many of her pictures. The ancient city is to her a symbol of man's deep past and his love for his Almighty as well as the beginning of her own life.

The show will be on view at 30 Witherspoon Street, until October 9. Hours are 10 to 5, Monday through Saturday.

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

At Gallery of Fine Art. The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art will open its season with an exhibition of watercolors, drawings and graphics by George Grosz.

Grosz died in his native Germany at the age of 66. From 1933 until shortly before his death, he had made his home in the United States. He taught for many years at the Art Students League in New York.

He became the artist historian of his time — the greatest of modern Germany. He was able to single out all the sordid details of the bourgeoise and moral decay and convey all the modes of terror, cruelty and ugliness.

He saw the rise of Nazism, the vilest nightmare mankind suffered. His works reveal modern Germany between the two world wars, and it was not a pleasant sight.

The German period remains to be sure, the locus of the artist's fundamental accomplishments. Grosz' American paintings tell another story. The art he produced here was a satire on social observation and political emotion. He enjoyed depicting the emmigrant in his environment and mellowed in his art tremendously, which is evident in his renderings of nature.

The exhibition will be on view at the Gallery of Fine Art, 9 Spring Street, Monday through October 23.

OPEN HOUSE AT PAA

Tuesday Night at 8. The Princeton Art Association will hold an open house Tuesday night at 8 in its new headquarters at 3 Spring Street. The public is invited.

The evening will provide an opportunity to see demonstrations by faculty artists, meet board members and register for fall classes. Further details on the curriculum are provided on this page.

DISPLAY YOUR ART

At Lawrenceville Show. Juniors and seniors alike are invited to show at the Lawrence Township Recreation Department's Second Art Festival, scheduled to open Saturday, October 10, at the Lawrence Shopping Center, Trenton. (Rain date, October 17.)

Hobbyists as well as professionals may enter. There will be a Junior Division for 16 years of age and under, and an "All Others" division for everyone else.

Awards will be made in oil, water color, pastel and water color (including acrylics); penandink; photography (black and white or color); hobbycraft (needlework, batik, ceramics, woodcraft, shell work, etc.); sculpture and mixed media.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the Lawrence Township Recreation Department in the Municipal Building on Lawrence Road; the Lawrenceville Hardware Store, Main Street, Lawrenceville or the M.A.B. Paint Store, Lawrence Shopping Center.

Each entrant will be limited to ten entries. Works which have won at previous Lawrence Shopping Center shows will not be eligible for awards although they may be displayed for sale.

THE NASSAU STREET LOOK is going to change from clutter to flowers, if Mrs. Fleurette Fauss and Hal Burnett of Gallery 100 can rally enough support. Two mum-and-ivy-filled boxes are in front of the gallery and a third is blooming in front of the Pancake House. Hardy Peterson, Lawrenceville Road, makes the boxes.

Why take drugs?

Many today are trying drugs as a means to find reality and fulfillment.

But they are being cruelly disappointed.

In the Christian Science Sunday School, young people find true fulfillment through a new and deeper understanding of God and their relationship to Him

They learn of the joyous spiritual reality that is already their God-given right to know and experience.

Why we had to ask for a telephone rate increase for the first time since 1958.

Since the last time we asked the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners for a general increase in phone rates, the cost of living has soared more than 35%. Our annual operating expenses have more than doubled. And our construction expenditures have almost tripled.

Actually, it took enormous doing to keep telephone prices down through the past 12 years.

First, we tightened our belt the same way you might do if you were caught in a bind.

And, second, we introduced dozens of innovations aimed not only at cutting costs, but at improving the quality of your phone service as well.

For example, 100% dial service.

For example, expanded direct distance dialing.

For example, electronic switching.

Through innovations and efficiencies we were able to absorb more than $190 million in increased operating expenses. And on top of that, to reduce intrastate toll rates several times, saving customers some $23 million annually.

We won't cut phone service and that's the only place left to cut.

Costs are now rising faster than new technology can offset them.

So, if we're going to continue to give you ever-improving communication service, we must have more money.

To pay increased wages. To pay increased cost of capital. To pay increased taxes.

It's not a case of "want to." It's a case of "got to."

Average bill for basic residence phone service would go up 80¢.

We know you're being hit from all sides. Be assured that our requested raise has been set as low as realistically possible.

It averages 80¢ per month for basic service to the individual line residential customer. And $1.85 for the individual line businessman.

In addition, we're asking for other increases. Some of these are: increases in toll message charges, higher charges for Centrex, Selective Calling and other special services, and increases in most one-time charges for connecting, changing and moving service and equipment. Also the introduction of a monthly charge for non-published telephone service and a one-time charge to establish or change this service.

Two happy notes. One, we're planning to initiate bargain rates for late-night direct dialed calls within New Jersey. And, two, we're proposing a new basic economy phone service for people who make few calls each month.

We need the increase.

The mathematics of inflation mean we cannot continue to do the kind of job you — our customers — need in the 70's at the same general rates as in the late 50's. New rates are essential.

Additional information about our rate request will be enclosed with your next bill. Further details are available at your local New Jersey Bell Business Office.

THE GENERALIZATION TRAP

by Philip Eby McPherson, Superintendent, Princeton Regional Schools

Why do we refer to the kids who are now growing up as the "rising generation"? It seems to me we do so in order to arrive at some generalizations that will help us in our learning with them, in our learning to be helpful to them in their development.

Generalizations are useful to all of us. And there are many generalizations about youth today. Most of us have heard it said, for instance, that "the kids today are more concerned about social issues than they were when I was young", or that "students today are going to hell with their atheism, their sex and their drugs", and so on.

I, too, have often made generalizations about "the kids". But I think it's most important for all of us to be aware of the traps of generalizations when we talk of "the kids" — just as when we talk of "the parents", or "the community", or "the teachers". I think we should continually remind ourselves that we're talking about individuals, each of whom is significantly different from the other.

Many of the generalizations about the "generation" of "the kids" today seem to focus on either a glorious or a dismal prediction about the future. Some people say, "Young people today are really great; when they grow up and take over our world, everything will be fine." Others say, "Young people today are completely out of hand; when they grow up and take over the world, they'll destroy it".

I think that it would be foolish to believe either one of these predictions and then sit back and wait for it to come true. I have talked with kids who are intensely compassionate toward their fellow humans; but I have also talked with kids who possess an immense amount of hatred for minorities in our society.

These experiences leave me with both hope and concern. But they no longer leave me surprised. In education, we can't afford to be surprised that in any random group of kids we'll find roughly the same differences of values and views that we'll find in any random group of adults.

Our children do not grow up in a vacuum. They grow up with us and they are really a lot like us in many ways, both good and bad. In our homes and in our schools and in our community, we must deal with the good and the bad, in the youth and in ourselves.

Some of the talk about the "generation" of "the kids" today includes talk of "the generation gap". While you can seem to make some useful generalizations about a "generation gap", it can be a misleading term, too. For every kid I've heard say "My parents and I are completely at odds on the war in Vietnam", I've heard another say: "I agree completely with my parents that we ought to get out of Vietnam right away"; or, "I agree with my folks that we must fight this war until we win it".

For every family with a communication problem between parents and children, there is another where there is understanding and rapport. When we label the lack of communication between particular adults and children as "the generation gap," we often feel as though we've explained something. But it isn't a very useful explanation in that it doesn't help us to find ways to improve on particular situations.

Parents often worry about not having enough in common with their youngsters because of the difference in age between their "generation" and their children's "generation". In doing so, they forget that its not necessarily a question of age.

For instance, it may be helpful to 40-year-old parents in Princeton today to realize that they probably have more in common with their kids — in terms of confronting together the issues of the early 1970's — than they would have in common with other parents of another time or place — such as Princeton parents of 40 living in the 1950's or Australian Bushman parents living right now. My kids and yours are living in the same world that we are and in many ways are dealing with the same problems that you and I are dealing with.

As well as thinking carefully about what we mean by a "generation", I think that it may also be important to think about what we mean by a "rising" generation. While it is true that youngsters are involved in a period of physical, intellectual and emotional growth which would appear to be in some ways unique and part of a process by which they "rise" from childhood to adulthood, I think it's most important for us to look beyond that general way of thinking about youth. To see the kids as "rising" is to see them as "rising" to someplace or something and to see adults as having "arisen". But in my view, that's not what life and learning are all about.

If we see "rising" as growing and learning, as the gaining of fuller and fuller competence, social responsibility and sense of personal power, then we should see all of us — young people and adults — as "rising" through all the days of our lives and never reaching an end point in our individual growth as human beings.

In fact, I think a number of kids have helped me become more aware of this when they criticized their school experience as something that is seen by some adults as "preparation for life". As these kids have said to me, "We don't want to be told to go to school to prepare for life. We know that life is now, for you and for us, too, and we want school to be relevant to our life now."

In short, I would caution all of us against the use of terms like "generation gap" and "the kids" if we are allowing these terms to provide us with easy explanations for issues that we should be dealing with on a deeper level, and in more individualistic and personal ways.

This means that it's important to listen to young people as individuals, remembering that they are different from each other, just as adults are, and that they are different from you in some ways but not so different in other, perhaps more important, ways.

It means that individual kids and adults can learn a lot from each other about common concerns. And it means that if we want to be able to help young people today we must be willing to look at ourselves, to help ourselves, and to allow kids to help us, now and for all the rest of the days of our lives.

And in education, it means we need to find more and more ways for kids and adults together to create schools that are not based on questionable generalizations about particular age groups, but that provide every individual, regardless of age, with what he needs so that all of us together can be the "rising generation" in America today.

A DECISION TO BE MADE: Eleven of these 12 football players will start on offense for Princeton against Rutgers Saturday, but Coach Jake McCandless still wasn't sure when the picture was taken whether his fullback would be Bill Early (32) or Doug Blake (41). The other backs are Rod Plummer (13), quarterback; Brian McCullough (43) and Hank Bjorklund (40), halfbacks. The linemen are Pete Hauck and Chris Montgomery, ends; Dick Williamson and Bill Brown, tackles; Steve Saner and Emil Deliere, guards; and Kirk Liddell, center. (Bob Matthews Photo)

Princeton Faces Invariably Tough Rutgers in 1970 Opener

Princeton's football team will open its 1970 season against Rutgers Saturday in Palmer Stadium with a bigger problem on its hands than it had a year ago when it was about to face the Scarlet in the nationally televised centennial game.

Last fall, a Tiger eleven which had failed to win half its games the preceding season was going into the contest under a new coach and planning to scrap the traditional single wing for the T. Victory over a polished Rutgers force seemed a near insurmountable assignment, and no one expected the Orange and Black to make a particularly strong showing.

In this Saturday's meeting, however, Princeton comes off a 6-3 season which saw it win four of its last five games, earn a tie for the Ivy title and generally give the impression that football under Jake McCandless was heading for an explosive era. Nine months later, the wheel comes full circle again; another impressive Rutgers eleven is waiting – but this time, the Tigers must make a strong showing or be regarded as wads of disappointment.

Kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock and fair weather should draw a crowd of 35,000. While early games in the 101-year old rivalry have given Princeton a large edge, this is the rubber contest in the last 12. Each team has won six and the desire to dominate the most recent portion of the rivalry is extreme.

Offense Holds Promise. Whatever the outcome of Saturday's game, it is highly unlikely that Princeton will fail to score — as it did in the 29-0 rout a year ago while its brand new offense was a building. Although the Tigers have lost their all-Ivy quarterback, Scott MacBean, and the six members of the starting line, so much holdover material was available that they appear ready to give the Rutgers defense a busy afternoon.

Rod Plummer will start at quarterback as MacBean's successor, with the promising sophomore, Tim Testerman, in reserve. Operating with Plummer will be three lettermen, the speedy Hank Bjorklund, a junior, at tailback; classmate Doug Blake at fullback and Brian McCullough, the only senior, at flanker back. While the Tiger playbook may never get around to demonstrating their unusual versatility, it is undoubtedly the first Princeton backfield in the modern era all four of whose members can pass.

The first ball carrier to see action in a reserve capacity will undoubtedly be sophomore Bill Early, the highly promising fullback. He broke Cosmo Iacavazzi's rushing and scoring records as a freshman and will be a highly valuable addition to the varsity.

Willie Williams, another sophomore, will spell Bjorklund, while Larry Chollet '73 is the replacement for McCullough at flanker back. Thos the Tigers have only one senior among their top eight ball carriers.

Line Averages 206. Loss of virtually the entire starting line, plus two big tackles who had been counted on to hold down regular assignments, would have created a major problem under normal circumstances. However, backfield depth was such that flanker backs Pete Hauck and Chris Montgomery have been converted to split and tight end, respectively, giving the Tigers a pair of lettermen there.

Emil Deliere and Steve Saner, 1969 reserves, have been distinctly impressive so far as guards. Dick Williamson, a 1968 letterman who was out with injuries last fall, is one of the tackles, while sophomore Bill Brown, the other tackle, is the only member of his class to earn a starting job on this platoon. The veteran Kirk Liddell lends a steadying influence at center.

Seven Lettermen on Defense. The big question about the Princeton defensive platoon is how much the Tigers suffer through the graduation of Tom Hutchinson and Bob Hews, the two fine tackles who meant so much to last year's team. They will be replaced by a big sophomore, 245 lb. Carl Barisich, and a 225 lb. junior, John O'Donovan, who was a standout as a freshman two years ago but saw little action last fall behind Hews.

Fortunately, unusual ability exists at the linebacking and corner back spots, so the opportunity to cover for early inexperience in the line is there. Rounding out the front five are Steve Sikora, already a veteran as a junior, and classmate Norm Townsend at the ends, with junior Phil Barbaccia moving into the starting assignment at middle guard after a year of active duty in a reserve capacity.

Captain Denny Burns and Pete Boyle are a fine pair of linebackers, while another pair of lettermen, seniors Art Ellis and Jeff Davis, are known quantities as cornerbacks. Bob Wolfe, a junior, and senior Brad Corcoran, letterman, will hold down the safety slots.

There is unusual depth in reserve from point of view of

Rules Virtually Unchanged

In contrast to other years, when football was almost a whole new ball game at the start of a season because of numerous rules changes, procedures in effect in 1969 remain virtually intact.

The most important revision will now result in a penalty for pass interference against a team which holds a potential receiver forward of the line of scrimmage at any time after the ball has been snapped. In the past, such a call was made only if the pass had actually been thrown.

Under the old rules, the defensive team was charged with holding, and lost 15 yards. Now, the offensive team will be given the ball at the spot of the infraction and will also have an automatic first down.

potential, but in the words of the late Charlie Caldwell, almost all of them are "green peas." Of the 11 immediate reserves on this platoon, only two are seniors and of the remaining nine, most are sophomores.

Rutgers a Veteran Team. In contrast to the rebuilding which Princeton has had to do this fall, Rutgers can start 19 lettermen at the top 22 positions. The Scarlet has had a fortnight's spring practice, a scrimmage with Penn, which it won, 17-14, and a game with Lafayette, which it won, 41 to 16.

Mike Yancheff, the senior quarterback, was 8 for 13 and 108 yards, scoring twice on short runs in last week's opener. He works in a backfield with fullback Steve Ferrughelli and halfbacks Larry Robertson and Al Fenstemacher. At 225, Ferrughelli is billed by the Scarlet as one of the nation's best.

Coach John Rateman has another big, versatile offensive unit, one that will test the relatively inexperienced Tiger defense to the utmost. It will be greatly to Princeton's credit if it can keep the experienced visitors from scoring 20 points or more.

QUICK LOOK AT RUTGERS

OFFENSE: Has strong potential built around passing of quarterback Mike Yancheff and running of Steve Ferrughelli a pro prospect as a fullback. Line has only two starters from 1969.

DEFENSE: Can start nine lettermen, most of them last year's regulars.

CHIEF ASSET: Largely a senior team which has benefitted greatly from spring practice and last week's opener with Lafayette. Overall experience of top 22 players far outweighs Princeton's.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Lack of depth. If game is close, first-line players may have to go much of the distance.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Pro setback with wide flanker and occasional use of I formation.

In contrast to last year, however, Rutgers appears a good deal more vulnerable on defense. The Scarlet has some thing of a problem at the two tackle slots and also is short on depth. Princeton's hope in winning lies in the fact that its offense is a great deal more prepared to give a good account of itself than it was in the opener a year ago, and will not have to cope with a Rutgers defense as polished as the Scarlet could field in 1969.

Tigers Win Scrimmage. In a driving rainstorm at Kingston, R.I., Friday, Princeton defeated Rhode Island, 35 to 7. There is reason for optimism over such a showing, not because Rhode Island is much of a team but because a brand new offense could produce five TD's in the mud and rain.

Hank Bjorklund scored twice, as did split end Pete Hauck on a pair of passes, while quarterback Rod Plummer got the other. The Tigers dominated the action, leading 14-0 at the half and yielding the home team's lone TD near the end.

None of this comes close to matching the preparation Rutgers has had to date, and it may well be that the overall experience the Raritan entry has had will outmatch the Tigers again. In any event, the Scarlet goes into the game as the logical favorite.

The hunch here, however, is that Princeton's offense will overpower the visitors' defense often enough to win a game in which the loser appears likely to score at least twice. It is a tough assignment for the Orange and Black, particularly inasmuch as inability to handle Rutgers in the opener will leave grave doubts over the likelihood of a victory at Hanover in the third game of the year.

A Rutgers Threat from PHS

If Rutgers wins Saturday, the margin of victory could be provided by a sure-footed Princeton High School alumnus who handles the Scarlet's place kicking.

Against Lafayette Saturday, John Pesce, PHS, '68, was five for five on points after touchdown. More importantly, he contributed field goals of 30 and 35 yards.

Pesce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pesce of 73 Harris Road. A soccer styel kicker, he also captained the Little Tiger baseball team two years ago, playing second base.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Rutgers. Thin edge on running game.

Dartmouth over Massachusetts. Indians have great power.

Yale over Connecticut. Elis deep everywhere.

Columbia over Lafayette. If Lion sophomores develop.

Cornell over Colgate. Ed Marinaro too much.

Brown over Rhode Island Bruins, barely.

Lehigh over Penn. Quakers in trouble early.

PHS Will Be Underdog in Opener Saturday at Hamilton

(This is the last of three articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for 1970.)

Around Green Bay this year, fans were saying, The Pack is back." A 40-0 Packer defeat by Detroit in the opening game destroyed that boast.

Another team that has aspirations of coming back is the Princeton High School football team, winner of only three last year. And like Green Bay, the results of its opener Saturday with Hamilton will signal loud and clear whether the Little Tigers have sharpened their claws this season.

The game will be played at Hamilton, starting at 2.

Hamilton supposedly represents the ultimate in competition in Mercer County. The Hornets have won the County championship the last two years running. They are picked to repeat this fall. If they succeed, the Hornets will be the first team ever to win three County titles in a row.

Under coach Bill McEvoy last season, Hamilton supposedly rebuilding, surprised everyone by winning seven of nine. Against PHS here in last year's opener, after spotting the Blue and White an opening kickoff return of 85 yards, Hamilton came back to rip PHS, 27-13. In two years, Hamilton has lost only one game to Mercer County foes.

Equal Chance of Winning. "They've got talent. They're ranked as the team to beat and I think they should be," commented Dick Wood, PHS coach. All Wood would say of Saturday's outcome is, "I think we have an equal chance of winning."

A lot will depend on how well PHS can hottle up Hamilton's Bob Harris. Quite simply, Harris is being billed as the area's most explosive runner, and if he lives up to the predictions made about him he'll have PHS defensemen clutching at air. "Harris can break the game open any time," remarked Wood. "And he's only a junior," he added almost wistfully.

In short, PHS will be the underdog in its clash with Hamilton. All the advantages appear to be in Hamilton's corner, home field, Bob Harris,

TWO STARTERS AGAINST HAMILTON: Two who will be in the starting lineup for PHS in its opener Saturday at Hamilton are guard Larry Ritchey (left), a returning letterman, and Daryl Boone, Boone, 6-1, 175, has won a position at end, off his pre-season play in scrimmages. "He's been a big surprise," said PHS coach Dick Wood.

depth, winning tradition. If the Little Tigers can engineer an upset victory, it seems certain that they will be in contention in November for the Mercer County crown.

Starters Named. There is no question that the Little Tiger team that will travel to Hamilton will be superior to last year's squad both mentally and physically. There has been more time to prepare; there is more experience. "We've got some guys who can really play ball," said defensive coach Jim Beachell.

There is no lack of spirit or determination on the squad, whether that will be enough to carry the day against Hamilton is something else.

Starting for PHS will be Richard Jackson, wingback, John Hodges, quarterback, Lawrence Parker, fullback, LeoJohn Russi, tailback, Chris Latham, strong side end, Daryl Boone, the other end, John Drummond and Dave O'Brien, tackles, Larry Ritchey and Isaac Vanosche, guards, and a question mark at center.

Letterman John Schumaker sidelined by a summer illness, put pads on for the first time Friday. If he is ready for the opener he'll get the nod. If not Wood will choose between Ray Richards and Jack Seeley, whom he has been using in scrimmages.

Team Is Inconsistent. In describing the progress of his squad, Wood used the word "inconsistent" a number of times. The team has had scrimmages against Hunterdon Central, Howell Township and Freehold high schools.

"The blocking's been good but the follow up is not there. We've had a little trouble in the defensive secondary. We're just not consistent," Wood said. "We're good one play, bad the next.

Individually, he reported that the play of Daryl Boone at end "has been a surprise" and that Dave O'Brien, one of three PHS captains, has played well at tackle. "Many of our boys are going both ways," he said.

On defense, Beachell cited the play of Jackson, Parker, Hodges and O'Brien.

If PHS hopes to reverse itself this year it has to — in Wood's opinion — cut down the number of mistakes it made last year and improve its ball handling.

"If you look at it statistically," he said, we had more fumbles, interceptions and penalties last year than we had in the past five or six. If we can cut down on the fumbles and interceptions, it will help us a lot."

NEW PHS COACH. Four years ago, Bill Cirullo was taking instructions as starting tailback on PHS eleven. This year, he's giving them, as he joins his old coach Dick Wood and Jim Beachell in guiding the Little Tiger varsity. "I've always wanted to coach and I'm lucky to get the opportunity," he said. "I'm looking forward to it."

Question Of The Week

Question: How many games games do you think the Princeton University football team will win this year?

Where asked: Around town.

Bill Wright, Penns Neck, plumber: I think they'll win them all. Princeton has a good team this year and I don't think anyone else is as strong — Yale lost everybody. From what I hear, Princeton has a lot of balance this year.

Tom Herrman, Kingston, plumber: I'll say they'll win them all. I feel they really have it this year and I don't see them having trouble with anyone. I hope so. They've been my favorite team.

Al Babbitt, Trenton, maintenance man, Frick Lab.: I haven't heard that much, but I'll say they will win about four. I think they'll beat Colgate, Columbia, Rutgers and Brown.

Silvio Toto, Trenton, laborer: I worked for the University a long time and I heard they had a good team this year. I think they'll beat Harvard, Rutgers, Colgate, Columbia, Brown, Penn and Cornell. Yale and Dartmouth will probably be too tough for them.

Tom Johnson, Park Place, partner, R. F. Johnson Electric Co., North Tulane Street: I was going to say they'd lose one but I'll make it easy and say they'll win them all. I think they are underrated. Quarterback is going to be a surprise . . . Plummer. I think they have one of the best backfields in the east. With a little luck, they can go undefeated.

Paul Toon, Trenton, employee, Firestone Library: They'll win them all. Rod Plummer is going to be the best quarterback in the league and Norm Townsend is going to be an outstanding defensive end. They should go all the way; the only one which may give them trouble is Dartmouth.

Jason Lewis, New Brunswick, executive producer, Passport Radio, WTOA: I'll give them Rutgers and Columbia—I won't give them Dartmouth — Colgate and Penn. Brown is iffy but I think Princeton will beat them again. They'll beat Harvard but they won't beat Yale. Cornell is a toss-up; it could go either way. I'll say it will be 5-3-1 . . . but if they lose to Rutgers in the first game, all bets are off.

Doc Sapp, Trenton, Princeton University employee: I'll go out on a limb: I'll say they'll win all nine. They're going to underestimate Plummer; think he's really going to do the job. Testerman is pretty good, too. Between the two of them, they are going to carry that team. Princeton is going to do a lot better than most people think.

Ernest Byard, Trenton, University employee: They'll win six out of nine. They'll lose to Dartmouth—Dartmouth has a good team back and they'll be revenge-minded — Yale and Cornell. Yale is pretty strong again. Cornell is the dark horse and Princeton is kind of green, especially in the defensive line.

Sal Palmer, Bordentown, sheet metal mechanic for Firestone addition: I think they'll win about five. They'll lose to Harvard, Rutgers, Yale and Brown. I pick Brown in a big upset this year. I think Rutgers has a stronger team again this year and they'll definitely lose to Harvard. Princeton will get the majority, though, and that's the main thing.

Walt Pazdan, Ewing Township, electrician: I think they'll win five out of nine. They'll lose to Cornell, Dartmouth, Penn and possibly Columbia in a big upset. I'd like to see them win them all but I just don't feel this is their year. They've lost too many starters.

Alton C. Spears, Trenton, Princeton University janitor: From the reports I've heard, they look pretty good. They're supposed to have a lot of backs, but I'm not too sure about Rutgers and Harvard. I'd say they're the two tough ones and probably the ones they'll lose. They should win the rest.

George Harris, Holder Hall, University sophomore: They'll probably lose to Yale and Dartmouth . . . and to Rutgers. Rutgers has spring practice and they will have already played a game when they meet Princeton. They should win the rest. Bjorklund ought to be a strong runner and they have a lot of quarterbacks. Sikora should be an outstanding end.

Steve Pearson, Holder Hall, University sophomore: I'll say they end up 6-3. They'll probably lose to Dartmouth and Yale, and, I hate to say it, to Rutgers. Dartmouth will be out for revenge. I'd like to see them win them all. We're supposed to have a pretty decent line but we've had some injuries on defense.

Two Were Right in '69

Of 13 asked the same question last year, only two picked the Tigers to win six and lose three.

Freddie Skipworth hit on the losses to Yale and Colgate but went awry when he picked the Tigers to defeat Rutgers in the opener and lose to Dartmouth.

Ernest Byard predicted the Tigers would win their first six, then lose the last three to Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth. He also picks the Tigers to finish 6-3 this year.

Sometimes we get the feeling we're being followed.
Everybody's getting into the act.
Everybody's making a small car.
And since we've made more of them than anyone else, we thought we'd pass along some things we've learned about the business over the years.
First off, there's no doubt about it, the only way to make an economy car is expensively.
So Rule No. 1, don't scrimp.
Get yourself the best engineers in the business and then hire 9,000 or so top inspectors to keep them on their toes.
Next, try to develop an engine that's not a gas-guzzler. If you can get it to run on pints of oil instead of quarts, great. If you can get it to run on air instead of water, fantastic.
Work on things to make your car last longer. Like giving it 45 pounds of paint to protect its top and a steel bottom to protect its bottom.
Important: Make sure you can service any year car you make. There's nothing worse than having someone find out that a part they need to make their car go is no longer available.
Finally, spend less time worrying about what your car looks like and more time worrying about how it works.
Perfecting a good economy car is a very time-consuming business. So far it has consumed 25 years of our time.

Wood pointed out that the increased use of the T formation was unfamiliar to the players and caused more fumbles. He predicted that his tailback, Rossi, will be able with another year's experience to execute the run-pass option ("Which is one reason why I went to the T") with greater facility. "He won't throw the interceptions he did last year," he predicted.

Assuming that PHS is a sounder club than it was last year, any outlook for its success will hinge heavily on the caliber of the opposition. A quick look at the 1970 schedule indicates that the Little Tigers are going to have to work hard for every victory. "It isn't an easy one," Wood said.

Cherry Hill Newcomer. It is identical to last year's when PHS won three of eight with the exception of the addition of Cherry Hill East. The top football power in South Jersey last year, Cherry Hill East is the final game of the schedule.

In between Cherry Hill and Hamilton are Ewing, 2-6 in '69; Trenton (6-3), Cedar Ridge, Madison Township, New Brunswick, Steinert (5-4) and Notre Dame (5-4). Ewing is the only County team PHS defeated last year. It's other victories were against Cedar Ridge and Madison Township.

Ewing has a new coach, Frank Barron, and an entire new staff including Craig Wood, former PHS tailback and one of Dick Wood's sons. (Does Macy tell Gimbel; will son tell father?). In addition, Barron has introduced the I formation with variations and has switched some linemen to backs. It seems another year before Ewing can get organized and put it together. A win for PHS.

From a string of losing seasons' Frank Caprara brought Trenton High storming back last year, including a 35-8 pasting of PHS. Moreover, speedster Mike Rattle is back — if anyone manages to eclipse Hamilton's Harris, it will be Rattle who averaged five yards a carry for the Tornadoes as is quarterback Skip Scott.

These two were more than PHS could handle last year and barring any major breakdown in the Trenton line THS should have the edge again. A PHS loss.

Cedar Ridge, a 27-0 victim to PHS last year for its easiest win, is still a relatively new school, having split off from Madison Township a few years ago. "I'm sure they're a lot better this year," commented Wood, who revealed the school had discipline problems when it played Princeton. A PHS win.

PHS vs. New Brunswick last section.

Construction Team Builds Press-Box

Not all the team work is on the football field these days at Princeton High School.

That new press box, for example, was built by the combined efforts of PHS faculty, PHS students, school system maintenance men and some members of the administrative staff.

Jack Scott, who teaches Trade and Industry classes at PHS, got together with William Karch, who's in charge of facilities for the schools, and Norman Van Arsdalen of the schools' physical education department, and the three of them decided that constructing a press box would be a way to bridge the generation gap and provide what teachers like to [illegible] ing experience [illegible] the same time.

Besides [illegible] gave PHS a press box.

Students Were Paid. Student workers were Darryl Boone, Hyatt Briscoe and Richard Jackson, all now members of the junior class. They were paid for their work. Messrs. Scott, Karch and Van Arsdalen volunteered their time. So did the men of the maintenance staff.

Charles Van Note, head of the department, his son, Keith Van Note, Bob Rostrand, Joe Garlowski and Walter Aper ans.

The box was designed by Collins, Uhl Hoisington and Anderson — they're official architects for the schools — and the pieces were fabricated in the schools shop under Mr. Van Note's direction.

Then, on to the football field. The students had had construction theory in Mr. Scott's T & I class, and they knew about foundations, plywood, two by fours and so on. But this was genuine practical experience in reading blueprints and handling the hammer and nails.

The students and their older colleagues assembled the prefabbed press box in a single Saturday, and all that remains to be done are stairs and windows.

What's Next? Money for the box came from Mr. Karch's regular wood and nails maintenance account.

"It was an invaluable learning experience for everybody," says Mr. Scott with enthusiasm, "and we ought to do a lot more."

Next? Dugouts for baseball, that's the rumor.

HUN OPENS SATURDAY

Newark Academy Here. In baseball the Big Red Machine is Cincinnati; in football around here it's Hun.

Winning is new this year to the Reds, for Hun it is old hat. During the past three seasons Hun has yet to be defeated, winning 23 and tying three. "We hope to keep it going," said Hun coach Dave Leete.

Hun will open its eight game season Saturday afternoon when it plays host to Newark Academy, a new team on the schedule. Kickoff is 2 p.m.

No doubt to the dismay of its Penn-Jersey opponents, it appears that Hun has the manpower to duplicate its past success in which it combines a strong ground game with a bruising defense. "We've got good size and good speed," said Leete. He added, "Hopefully, we'll have one of the best lines around. Barring any flukes or injuries, we hope to do okay."

The one weakness, according to Leete, is a lack of depth, especially in the backfield. "And we may have a tough time in the secondary. Our strong point," he added, "will be our defense."

Nine Lettermen Return. The first eleven will be built around nine returning lettermen, led by captain Rick Ziegler, a 195-pound end. The line will be anchored by veterans Dick Whitehead, 235 lb. tackle, and guard Greg Cortina, a 6-2, 245 lb. behemoth.

Other returning linemen are Rick VanOrden, 175 lb. center, Er[illegible] Mc[illegible]lb. tackle and Jim Lange, 175 lb. guard.

[illegible] backs of the [illegible] letter men. Al Cha[illegible]ax, [illegible] quarterback spot last year with Mike Wagner [illegible] back to do the throwing. Two hundred pound Mike [illegible] used primarily as a linebacker last year and he was one of the best in the league will run from the fullback slot on defense. Jack Petrone and Pete Jones, the latter the lone non-letterman, will be the halfbacks.

Petrone, a senior, promises to be Hun's most explosive runner. In a scrimmage with Hamilton High School, picked to repeat as Mercer County champions, he scored all three Hun TDs, two on long runs. Unofficially. Hun's first team outscored the Hornets' first squad, three touchdowns to none.

Rich Get Richer. Hun got a further boost when Dennis Skrajewski, a 6-2, 205-lb. guard transferred from Steinert to the Edgerstoune Road campus for perfect example of the rich getting richer. Three others who have looked promising in practice, Leete said, are Brad Faus and Jones, halfbacks, and George Harper, a sophomore defenseman.

The starting lineup for Saturday's opener will have Ziegler and Mark Taylor at the ends, Whitehead and Langel the guards, Cortina and Skrajewski the tacklers and Van-Dien at center. Challfoux, Guadagno, Petrone and Jones will be the backs.

Basically, Hun will again run from the I formation, introduced last year by Leete, his first year as head coach. Followers of the Red and Black can expect to see more of the same crunching offense and diamond-hard defense that has toppled the opposition in the past, although Leete commented, with Challfoux throwing well, "we'll try to open it up a little more."

Against Hamilton, Hun gained 195 yards on the ground. 111 in the air. In a scrimmage with Peddie, picked with Lawrenceville as the two powers among all prep schools in this area, Hun was less successful.

Leete's assistant in coaching the 33 member varsity is Pete Savidge, the line coach. A former Hun center, Pete went on to captain the Rutgers' football team while his twin brother, Paul, captained the Princeton Tiger eleven. "Pete's building a good line for us," cummented Leete.

The remaining Hun schedule: Oct. 3, Admiral Farragut, Away; 10, George School, away; 17, Pennington; 24, Academy of New Church; 30, Perkiomen; Nov. 6, Pingry, away; and 14, Princeton Day School, away.

OPENER ON SATURDAY

For PDS Football Team. The opening of another season comes this Saturday for the Princeton Day School football team, out to pull itself up from the depths of an 0-8 record last year. The first opportunity, against an improved Montclair eleven on its own field Saturday, will not be an easy one. Kickoff is 2 p.m.

In two previous encounters with the North Jersey School, the scores have both been close — 12-8 in PDS's favor two years ago, and a 7-6 squeaker for Montclair last fall. This year Montclair is blessed with several returning letterman, including a veteran quarterback and a strong running back, Paul Canstantino.

Montclair already has one victory under its belt, a 42-0 romp over a weak Kings School. PDS has the benefits of a scrimmage for three quarters against a fine Lawrence High School squad last Saturday. The workout showed a couple of major problems Coach Dan Barren will have to work on before the Montclair game.

Scoring four times, Lawrence outplayed the Panthers for much of the first part of the game, but later on the two teams battled on more even terms. PDS looked much better when the teams spent some time working inside each other's 10-yard lines.

However, as soon as possible the Blue and White is going to have to develop a better pass rush and/or a better coverage in the secondary - hopefully both. It got burned a number of times by Lawrence's long passes.

On offense, the Panthers will be definitely improved this year. Given adequate protection, Peter McCandless has shown he has the ability to throw well to his receivers. David Claghorn and Kirk Moore are both hard runners. A lot will depend on the performance of the offensive line.

CARNEGIE CLUB SAILS

Five Races Held. Tom Huntington won the sloop class racing staged Sunday by the Carnegie Sailing Club, compiling 21.9 points. Helen Sheehan served as his crew.

Jim McPherson with 20.8 points and Paul Porter with 10.4 were second and third. In the Penguin class, Ed Metcalf won with 32 points, while his wife, Nancy, was crew. Bill O'Donnell (29.7) and Bert Hoebal (27.2) also placed.

The sunfish class event went to Dan Mazzarella with 22.6 points. Bob Halzman was second with 21.6 and Dick Hill third with 19.8.

OPENINGS AVAILABLE

In YMCA Fall Program. As the YMCA prepares to start its fall program, openings remain in classes for karate, judo, paddle tennis, men's tennis and yuga.

Complete information about the time and dates of these classes may be obtained by calling the Y office at 924-4825. The Y also invites basketball players to use its outdoor, lighted court on Monday and Thursday evenings.

OPERATIONS BEGUN HERE

By Legacy Press. A new publisher of books on American art and history, began operation here this week. The Legacy Press, headquartered in the Lower Pyne Building, at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets, will publish original and reprint editions available to libraries, museums, historical and other educational institutions, private collectors of American art and antiques and the book trade.

The new publishing house, according to its president, Bernard M. Barenholtz, "will seek through its publications and other activities to present the many dimensions of America's cultural heritage in original and meaningful ways. We hope to provide new resources for an increasing number of people seeking entertainment and education from the art, architecture and artifacts of America's past," he added.

Joining Mr. Barenholtz in the venture will be Wells Drorbaugh as publisher, and Lawrence Grow as editorial director.

Scheduled for publication in

Wells Drorbaugh

Bernard M. Barenholtz

1971 are 29 titles. Among these are the first Collectors' Editions in trade and library bindings; "The George Brown Toy Sketch Book," executed in 1860; an illustrated whaling log; "The Book of Tatooing, a tatoo artist's sample book from the late 1890's and a definite definitive volume on glass bottles.

Also to be published in the coming year are 12 paperback titles in the American Historical Catalog Collection, and several reprints. In addition the firm will publish hardcover reprint editions of a dozen classic books on art and antiques, titles long unavailable to most collectors and students.

The press will also undertake the publication of original, semi popular works in the arts and social history. These will be books of "historical relevance," but which will not sacrifice scholarly perspective, according to Mr. Barenholtz.

A founder of Creative Playthings, Mr. Barenholtz served as executive vice-president of the company from 1950 until its acquisition by the Columbia Broadcasting Co. in 1966. He retired from CBS in March, 1969. He lives at 444 Rosedale Road.

Mr. Drorbaugh, a resident of 92 Battle Road, was associated with Conde Nast Publications from 1948 to 1969. While there, he served as publisher of "The Bride's Magazine" from 1959 to 1964, and prior to this was the magazine's director of merchandising and research. He was appointed business manager of Conde Nast books in 1965.

Formerly an editor and director of rights for G.P. Putnam's Sons, Mr. Grow has also served as director of publicity for the company. Before joining Putnam's, he was a trade book editor with the McGraw-Hill Book Company and in the New York office of the Bobbs-Merill Co., Inc. He lives in Blackwell's Mills.

The staff of the Press will be assisted in its selection of materials and projects by an advisory board. Already named to the board are Eric DeJonge, chief curator, William Penn State Museum, Harrisburg, Pa., and Mildred Compton, director, Indianapolis Children's Museum. The board will also include professional historians, critics, and authorities on historical preservation.

SEASON TO OPEN

For Ballet Society. The Princeton Ballet Society opens its 1970-71 season with the resumption of classes on Thursday at the School of Ballet, 262 Alexander Street.

Audree Estey, founder and director of the Society, said that the school has a larger schedule of classes than in any previous year. An expanded program of modern dance under the direction of Ruth Langridge has been added to the usual curriculum of classic ballet from the beginning kindergarten through advanced and professional level, jazz, women's exercise ballet, and boys' and young men's gymnastics.

The season will also include plans for an original, full-length ballet to be presented at McCarter Theatre in May, which the School of Ballet performs every other year. The 1969 production of "The Wizard of Oz," choreographed by the school's faculty and danced by the students, was widely hailed for its professionalism.

The School of Ballet's faculty, headed by Mrs. Estey, includes Lila Brunner, Joan Morton Lucas, Judy Leviton, Therese Brady Donohue, Jerry Boss, Ruth Langridge and Larry Ivan. The music department is headed by Marilois Kierman. Mrs. Bonnie Wagner is executive secretary.

New students may still apply for admission to classes by contacting the school office between 10 and 12 and 2 to 5 p.m.

The Princeton Ballet Society also maintains the Princeton Regional Ballet, a company of young dancers chosen by audition from studios throughout central New Jersey, particularly known for its annual holiday presentation of "The Nutcracker" at McCarter Theatre.

Hauser and Henry had reached the finals by beating the teams of Cliff Crawford and Bob Pearce; Jack Baer and Jay Cassen; and Wighty Martindale and Bill Novelli.

Bach and Smith reached the finals with respective wins over Traybel and Woodrow; and Sam Shuren and Tony Zuccarello.

Last year's champions, Cliff Crawford and Ralph Bloom could not defend their 1969 championship because Bloom had other commitments.

This weekend the woman's doubles, boy's doubles, and father-son doubles tournaments will be held.

NEW PROGRAM SET

At St. Andrew's. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church has experimentally rescheduled its Sunday morning program to family worship from 10 to 11, followed by "Church Academic" from 11 to noon.

The church school classes in the second hour will include special elective study and discussion groups for adults. There will be child care and enrichment programs for children who are too young or otherwise unable to participate in family worship.

Elective adult study offerings for the first six weeks include: Situation Ethics, a study of modern ethical theory led by the Rev. William Morton; Family Workshop on Drug Abuse, led by the Rev. William Kight and Sermonic Themes and What You Think - led by the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton.

The Presbyterian Commission is sponsor of the Drug Abuse course and the public is invited to attend.

St. Andrew's is planning special music programs for Sunday evenings this fall, under direction of Thomas Mr Beth, organist and choirmaster. New members of the church staff include Dr. Evelyn Thompson, assistant to the minister, Gregory J. Pike, junior high advisor, and Donald N. Swanson, special projects.

This Sunday at 10, the Rev. Mr. Liffiton will preach on the topic, "Youth, Our Responsibility." There will be dedication of the church school teachers during the service. A coffee hour follows, during which time individuals may sign up for study courses.

A different schedule will hold for five of the classes. Dr. Gordon Davy's "Discussion Course" starts Thursday at 8 p.m. at his home. The Rev. MacC. Wells begins the orientation course for inquirers on Sunday, October 4. The Rev. Mr. Rand will lead a Tuesday Bible study class beginning October 6. The Rev. William N. STAINED GLASS ON VIEW

At First Presbyterian. An exhibit of stained glass by the Willet Studios of Philadelphia, will be held during October at the First Presbyterian Church.

There will be examples of new glass techniques, including Farbigem, a method of laminating glasses introduced by the Willets from Holland five years ago.

The exhibit includes a step by step progress of the making of a leaded glass medalion and some small examples of actual leaded glass, including the Peanuts comic strip character Schroeder playing Beethoven. There are also original water color designs and transparent lumieres.

The Willet Studios were founded by William Willet and his wife, Anne Lee in the late 1890's. In competition with studios throughout the world, Willet won the commission for the cadet chapel at West Point in 1910 and has been nationally prominent ever since. In Princeton, Willet windows are in the Princeton University Chapel and Trinity Episcopal Church. The firm is now led by Henry Lee Willet and E. Crosby Willet, son and grandson of the founders.

ROUTE 206, PRINCETON, N. J. ACROSS FROM PRINCETON AIRPORT

189 Constitution Drive

Aptly appointed one and one third acres, this ten-room Colonial with its terrace pool and patio is a noteworthy new listing. The room-size, slate-floored entrance foyer affords access to an opulent step-down living room with decorous white marble faced fireplace and French doors opening to terrace. The gracious and commodious dining room accommodates both many guests and large furniture, its French doors also open to the terrace. The casual den, which is near the front entrance has a small fireplace which emits traditional warmth and conviviality; the "Queen-Size" kitchen has abundant storage and adjoining bright breakfast area.

The upper floor is served by main and auxiliary stairs and contains five bedrooms and three baths; master bedroom suite is separate and has a fireplace. Not to be overlooked is the panelled gome room, also with a fireplace; the room-size cedar closet; and the Sylvan Pool which is in the rear court.

You should see it now (soon may be too late).

A HAPPY HOME

This property is made for the family with young children. A tree flowing brook in the tree-shaped backyard offers ample opportunity for that budding naturalist! In a neighborhood close to Lawrenceville shopping and only a hop to the Grammar School, the house has plenty of space. There is a living room, dining room and modern kitchen on the first level with den (or 4th bedroom) and family room, plus ½ bath on lower level. 3 bedrooms and full tiled bath complete the picture. A full dry basement and attached garage for overflow storage. Owner is ready to move Offered at $39,500

AT LAST WE'VE GOT IT!

A town house you can afford and allow your creative talents to "unfrustrate." Located on one of the nicer side streets in the heart of Princeton Borough, this 2 story older home has infinite possibilities. It has been immaculately maintained and has a small but pretty lot, living room, with fireplace, dining room, kitchen with an old fashioned pantry, 3 bedrooms and bath on the second floor. A walk-up attic that could be expanded and a one car garage. A good buy at $39,500

A 2-STORY RANCH

We're not crazy — most of the living is on the first floor. The slope of this beautifully treed lot in an excellent township area, allows for a bonus in space on the lower level. Flexible and unusual, this house has been "done over" with flair and lots of imagination. Every inch of space is utilized to perfection. Living room, with fireplace, completely modern and cheery kitchen, 3 bedrooms and bath, all on one floor. Playroom or second living room with fireplace on lower level, plus another large bedroom and bath. Extras of carpeting, air conditioning. A "fun" house and priced properly at $45,000

ELIZABETH JAMES SAYS:

FOR YEARS we have been trying to find a builder with the imagination and skill to create a house which combines the feeling of an old Bucks Co. farmhouse with the conveniences we demand today. Recently we found "Honeyhollow Village", in which a builder fulfills our demands. Land is determined by contour and each of the 2 houses already constructed combines the sense of an old house with open beam ceilings keeping room, fireplaces, and modern living. Including large closets, beautiful kitchen, plenty of bathrooms. "Carriage House" garage has room for 2 cars, tool shed and plenty of storage. Houses will range in price from $45,000 to $80,000. Come see the 2 model houses on Sunday. Maybe one of them is just what you want. If not, the owner will custom build to your desires.

HARMONY HILL FARM

ALL THE CHARM AND WARMTH OF ANTIQUITY, MANAGEABLE AS A HOUSE BUILT YESTERDAY.

Impeccably restored, with a countryside view across 130 acres rising to the highest overlook in the area, HARMONY HILL FARM combines rare appeals to the investor with the fast-disappearing charm of gracious country manor life.

The main house is small by "old stone house" standards, thus presents no more than the ordinary housekeeping problems in these servantless days. But all its eight rooms (and two baths) are spacious. More importantly, each is magnificently authentic in its restoration . . .

. . . the soft cherry panelling of the lovely living room with its beautifully modeled fireplace, (and a breathtaking view from every deeply recessed window)

. . . the dining room that was once the keeping room, with huge original pink brick fireplace and library chimney corner

. . . the kitchen with nothing forgotten in the planning for convenience and decor

. . . the four corner bedrooms (one with its rare "glory cupboard") and the broad landing at the head of the beautifully hand carved stair rail, are faithfully papered in old colonial design, with delicately matching woodwork.

The farm once supported a beef herd recently disbursed by the owners as they planned retirement, to which a sturdy and well kept machine shed will testify. To the investment-minded, the barn is distant enough for conversion into a handsome and roomy Dutch colonial house. This and the future sale of acreage in an area of escalating land values might well return to an imaginative owner the orginal purchase price of $225,000.

And you would be within six miles of a one hour deluxe commute to New York, and an easy 25 minutes to Princeton, and our office.

Please let us show you this delightful property.
